Schools borrow, transfer funds—decide to reduce staff

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

With its "red ink" growing, the Granite City School Board on Tuesday night approved borrowing and fund transfers, and set the stage to reduce still further its staff of employees.

Borrowing by anticipating taxes will total up to $1,750,000 between March 3 and April 10.

A public hearing was called for 7 p.m. Tuesday, March 24, on the honorable dismissal of an unspecified number of teachers, effective at the end of the current spring semester. They are expected to be chosen from all grade levels.

Enrollment may decline from the present 10,369 to about 10,000 in September, it was estimated. Any additional school closings apparently will not take place this summer, but might occur in the summer of 1982, it was indicated informally.

The administrative staff formally advised the board that it expects to recommend that the 1981-82 teaching staff be reduced in size, and it was decided to conduct the hearing to assure compliance with a recent amendment to Section 24-12 of the Illinois School Code. A regular board meeting will follow the hearing, eliminating the March 17 meeting.

In addition to teachers, the cutback may affect categories of employees, it is believed.

At the March 24 board session, Supt. B. J. Davis will provide additional details on nine of ten budget-balancing options that were discussed this winter. The tenth option, shutting down school buildings, is the subject of a massive study being coordinated by Assistant Supt. Frank Kraus. He said Tuesday night that the study will require another six weeks to complete.

Also submitted March 24 will be a three-phase priority and cost reduction plan that was developed about three years ago and has been partly implemented, Supt. Davis said.

Board Member Thomas Miskovsky emphasized that the board has been aware of the increasing deficit for some time and has taken numerous steps in seeking to resolve it. The superintendent agreed with his recollection and said he will pull the three-phase plan from board files for additional review.

New efforts will be made to find a (Continued on Page 5)

Decatur tells of 'offers'

Offers of money to withdraw from the mayor's race and threats of a dirty campaign which would ruin his family life were alleged by Alderman Warren Decatur in an exclusive interview with the Press-Record Wednesday.

Decatur alleged that on numerous occasions between Jan. 19 and the deadline-to-file petitions of candidacy Jan. 26, three men, including a city official not involved in the current election, offered Decatur rewards and promises if he would withdraw from the mayor's race and would run instead against City Clerk Robert W. Stevens, who is running on Mayor Paul Schuler's ticket.

One offer, alleged to be from a local stock broker and an accountant from outside Granite City, was phoned to Decatur by an area retailer, who called from the South, where the retailer was vacationing, according to Decatur.

Decatur said the pressure to withdraw from the mayor's race began Monday, Jan. 19, when an electrical contractor told Decatur that a man had taken him to a house on the eastern edge of Granite City and had told him he could get a contract for two years worth of electrical work at condominiums to be built near Edwardsville, if Decatur supervised the work.

"It was passed on to me that we could name our own price for the work. The man kept asking (the contractor) if Warren was still going to run for mayor, I was told," Decatur stated.

The following day, Jan. 20, Decatur attended the city council meeting and afterwards, the city official said he would like to see Decatur alone, Decatur said, adding that he (Decatur) was going to meet with another alderman over coffee and discuss city business and invited the official to join them.

The official declined the invitation, but said he would like to see Decatur Wednesday, Jan. 21, it was related.

On that morning, Decatur went to see the official in a city office and alleged that the official told him, "The campaign will be dirty" and that "he (the official) did not want to see my wife and daughter hurt by allegations about me. He told me he would not personally say anything, but was pretty sure others would," Decatur contended.

"I told him I was not backing out and I would run for mayor," Decatur added.

The pressure continued the following day, Thursday, Jan. 22, the candidate said, contending that the city official came to Decatur's office and asked him to consider running for city clerk against Bob Stevens. "He said a group would obtain signatures (for the candidate petition) by Jan. 26 and I could just sit back and watch it happen."

"I told him I was not interested in Bob Stevens' job and was running for mayor," Decatur related.

On Friday, Jan. 23, the official "said that if I would run for city clerk, there would be no cost to me involved and they would pay me a salary during the campaign equal to my pay at my place of employment. The talk occurred at my office. I told him I would think about it and call him at 10 a.m. Saturday (Jan. 24) at his home," Decatur alleged.

"Saturday morning, I heard rumors at restaurants and other places that I was definitely dropping out of the mayor's race. That disturbed me. I got my son-in-law, Virgil Kambarian, on the extension (phone) and called (the official). I told him that I had heard the rumors and was mad and upset."

"I also told him, 'Don't bother me again. I am running for mayor.' I thought it was too late for them to do anything else, since the deadline for filing was that Monday," Decatur stated in the interview.

About 5 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 24,

Schuler leads in poll

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

Who will be the next mayor of Granite City?

That is a question the Press-Record asked 52 city residents in a random telephone survey Tuesday and some surprising results emerged.

While a two-hour telephone poll done by the Press-Record does not have the reliability of a Harris Poll or utilize the scientific methods of professional polling organizations, caution was used to be sure that all geographic locations, including West Granite, North Granite, the Fourth Ward, Glenview and other areas had a fair representation.

The poll indicated that 60 percent of those residents of Granite City contacted who have a preference are leaning toward re-electing Mayor Paul Schuler.

Another 36 percent now plan to vote for Dan Partney and four percent lean toward Warren Decatur for mayor. Decatur says a poll done by his supporters shows that he is in the lead.

Two factors were clear in the Press-Record survey: 1) Most people contacted plan to vote April 7, and 2) the candidates are not wasting the time they are devoting to campaigning, since 44 percent of those contacted said they have not yet made up their minds who to support for mayor of Granite City (We suspect some had made up their minds, but did not want to state their choice).

Of 52 persons contacted at random, 45 said they plan to vote April 7. Of those 45, 26 had not yet decided who to vote for.

Of the 25 who expressed a favorite candidate, Mayor Schuler was the choice of 15. Partney had nine supporters and Decatur had one.

More council meetings in town hall proposed; no action now

It was the same old city council, but in a new setting Tuesday night as the council held its first meeting outside of the Granite City Hall in many, many years.

According to senior Alderman Sam Whitmer, who celebrated his 65th birthday at the meeting, the council has never before met outside city hall in as long as he can remember. Glancing around the spacious Granite City Township Hall, site of Tuesday night's meeting, Whitmer concluded, "Mayor, I think we're moving up."

The change of site for the city council meeting was in response to a few being unable to attend city council and town board meetings on the third floor of the city hall building, since the city hall has no elevator.

Two wheelchair-bound residents and spokesmen of other handicapped groups attended and thanked the council for giving them the opportunity to attend a meeting.

While the council would not commit itself to holding subsequent meetings in the new town hall building, 21st Street and Delmar Avenue, several aldermen did state the idea and agreed to confer with Granite City Township Supervisor Nelson Hagnauer to see if holding regular council meetings at the town hall would interfere with the activities of the senior citizens or other township events.

Glen Bettorf, a wheelchair-bound resident of the Fourth Ward, addressed the council, saying he believes the council agreed to hold the meeting in an accessible building because of newspaper articles.

He also said, "The main thing we want tonight is to ask why all meetings are not in an accessible building. I feel this is time for action on all of my requests tonight. The time for action is right now."

Responding to Bettorf's request, Fourth Ward Alderman Glen Sprankle made a motion that all city council meetings be held in the town hall and

Candidates air plans

Some "tough" questions were fielded by candidates for mayor of Granite City during the regular meeting of the Quad-Cities Ministerial Association Monday afternoon at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Each of the three candidates was allowed to make a 10-minute speech, followed by a question and answer period. Incumbent Mayor Paul Schuler said he had to attend a meeting of the Madison County Mass Transit Board (of which he is a member), so he spoke first and fielded the first set of questions.

After Schuler left, the group heard from Alderman Warren Decatur and Daniel Partney, the two who are challenging Schuler's re-election bid.

Tough questions on several topics followed those talks.

One black minister, who said his church represents residents of Madison, Venice, Brooklyn, Eagle Park and part of East St. Louis stated, "I find Granite City quite offensive to me. I find that blacks come to Granite City only to shop. There are no blacks in a city of 40,000 people."

"When I ask why, the blacks tell me they can't get in over here. I ask what you propose out of concern for the total community. If one part is sick and one is well, the sick will come to the well side," the minister contended.

Diocese organizes to fight 'hunger'

Bishop Joseph A. McNicholas of Springfield, bishop of the Springfield Catholic diocese, announced here Wednesday the organization of Hunger, Inc., to alleviate hunger in the 28 counties of the diocese.

Announcement of the establishment of the new organization which will replace the Rice Bowl program, was made at St. Mark's church in Venice yesterday morning.

The bishop said $100,000 has been pledged to the new organization, $50,000 of which will be made immediately available.

Contributions to the plan will not be limited to Catholics, but may be made by anyone through their local Catholic church, or by mail.

In a prepared statement, the bishop said: "We have today moved to establish a corporation in the State of Illinois entitled Hunger, Inc. The purpose of this corporation is to alleviate hunger in the 28 counties of Central Illinois comprising the Springfield Catholic Diocese."

The Diocese pledged $100,000 to Hunger, Inc. with $50,000 being made immediately available and representing the sole assets of this new corporation.

All money contributed will go directly to the alleviation of hunger which will be the sole criterion for eligibility.

There are absolutely no restrictions as regards race, color or creed.

All administrative costs will be absorbed by the Catholic parishes and organizations such as the St. Vincent de Paul Society which will serve as the dispensing agencies; thus 100 cents of every dollar will reach the hungry.

In recent years during Lent the people of our Diocese, through a national program called Rice Bowl, have been curtailing their own diet and contributing the money saved to alleviate hunger both abroad and here at home.

Cavalcade of Magic benefit on March 14

A "Cavalcade of Magic" show to benefit the Granite City Boys Athletic Club is planned for 7 p.m. Saturday, March 14, at the Granite City Township Building, 2060 Delmar Ave.

Tickets are now available and cost $2 if purchased in advance by calling 931-1341 or 877-4140. A $3 fee will be charged at the door.

Proceeds will be used to help finance several boys' baseball teams, which participate in the Granite City Park District program.

Billed as "an evening of fun and magic for the entire family," the show will spotlight the talents of a group of widely-known magicians.

Among the scheduled performers are: Harry Monti, Gene DeVoe, Father Paul Zipfel, Mike Coleman and Hank E. Pankey, a ventriloquist duo, and O'Dowd and Soda, artists of fantasy and the grand illusion.

John Apperson, a Granite City police officer and highly successful magician in his own right, will serve as master-of-ceremonies.

Many of those appearing in the benefit are not strangers to Granite City, having performed at various times in the local community.

Gene DeVoe is one and Harry Monti is another. Monti, an escape artist, appeared here two years ago when he provided half-time thrills at the Officer Friendly benefit basketball game by escaping from a straitjacket while suspended upside-down from the gymnasium ceiling.

DeVoe, who has stood center stage on the St. Louis magic scene for more than a quarter-century, is a great favorite of young people. He has entertained at a local bank's family night dinners here, as well as performing in and producing extravagant magic shows featuring internationally famous sorcerers.

The public is invited to attend the "Cavalcade of Magic."

Wastewater for livestock

The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, as part of the Governor's Drought Task Force, has approved the use of wastewater treatment plant effluent for livestock watering.

Based on water pollution control data maintained by the agency, a list of wastewater treatment plants whose sewage treatment effluent may be suitable for livestock consumption is being provided to municipal and village officials in drought-affected areas.

In Illinois, plants in Collinsville, Godfrey, Marine and Worden.

According to Ira Markwood, manager, division of Public Water Supplies, some public utilities have already stocked bulk water sales to farmers for livestock watering.

Roger Kanerva, manager of the agency's Division of Water Pollution Control, warns, however, that farmers should contact the extension adviser in their area first to make sure that local wastewater is satisfactory for their specific livestock.

"Farmers must also secure permission from the treatment plant owner or operator to provide water," Kanerva said.

Markwood added, "It is important to understand that wastewater is for livestock consumption only, and is not meant for domestic use such as drinking, cooking, washing and bathing."

"Thanks used to carry this water must be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected before being used for drinking water."

The annual Blue and Gold banquet of Cub Pack 19 of Logan School, was held last week, in the school gymnasium and cafeteria.

Previously, all the boys had invited their parents to attend an bring a covered dish. Food was served buffet style.

The invocation was given by Barbara Varadon, pack co-ordinator. Guest of the evening was Ted Scrum, representing the scout council.

As each boy arrived, he received a "fun pack." Later, the group of parents and boys moved to the cafeteria, where skits were performed by Dens II and III, under the direction of Debbie Tinsley and Carol Franklin, den mothers.

Lions seek new members

The Granite City Lions Club will hold a special new members guest night at their next meeting, Thursday, March 12 at 7 p.m., at Ervay's Restaurant. The event is being held to coincide with Lions International's January-February-March Membership Growth Program.

The International board of directors has proclaimed the three months as Membership Growth Months. During the three month period a special pin will be awarded to each sponsor of one or more new members, according to Club President

Elmer Wortham. "All club members are expected to bring a guest as a prospective member with them to the meeting," Wortham said. "Members who fail to bring their guest will be heavily fined by our club tail twister. If they fail to attend the meeting, they will be fined double at the following meeting," he warned.

President Wortham also said that the meeting will be open, and invitation extended, to all community service-minded men who are interested in membership in the Granite City Lions Club and Lions International. President Wortham will give a presentation on the history of the club, its organization, duties of the officers, directors and committees.

Special guest for the evening, deputy District Governor Donald D. Patrick, District 1-G, Region 4, will discuss Lionism on the international, state and district levels.

Following the presentation, Patrick will officially induct the club's newest members. The new Lions to be inducted are Oscar Nazzetta, an employee of Tri-saying, "That is not true. The blacks have their rights protected under the federal court and the federal government. It is just a matter of them buying a home."

City Port Authority and James Livingston of the Chamber of Commerce.

Asked by the Rev. Don F. Pierson, president of the Ministerial Association, whether Partney would enforce the rights of blacks to purchase homes in Granite City, Partney answered, "The people would be given protection." However, Partney added, "I plan to represent the people's needs that I represent at that time. I will work for the needs of the people who are here."

The question then was posed to Decatur, who said, "I understand some blacks are now living in Granite City and attending the public schools. I never heard any big fuss about it. If I was the mayor, the laws would be enforced."

Rev. Pierson contended that blacks now have difficulty finding a realtor who will sell them a house in Granite City and contended, "It's a time-bomb ticking."

Both candidates were asked whether they would trim the number of city employees if they were elected and both said they would.

Partney said he believes a "drastic reduction" is needed, particularly in the city's sewage treatment plant, as "the only way this city can get back in good financial condition again."

He said the city's payroll, overall, has increased 109 percent since 1972 and the cost of operating the sewage treatment plant has increased more than 385 percent.

The number of employees at the plant has doubled from 17 in 1972 to 34 last year, he stated, adding, "People want to know why their sewage bills went from $6 to $13. This is one reason."

Decatur said he was the first to advocate reductions in the staff at the sewage treatment plant three years ago and has long proposed reducing 10 jobs there. "Many are union employees and it has to be very drastic to lay them off," he warned.

Another question fielded by the two candidates after Schuler left was how they would attempt to increase the number of federal grants the city would receive.

Partney said he plans to hire a professional grants firm to work for the city on a percentage basis. "They get half to one percent of the grants they get us. The state has programs for redevelopment, housing for the elderly and other programs, many using combinations of grants and private capital."

"Since 1965, there has been only one project for the elderly, Anchorage Homes. I would like to see a housing facility for the elderly on the edge of downtown and make downtown accessible to them."

"We have many tools to work with, but it will have to be fully researched. I plan to use some SIUE research assistants, who are available to the city free," Partney added.

Decatur said he plans to hire an administrative aide experienced in grant applications and large budgets and believes the man he has in mind will work for the city for $5,000 per year.

He said he hopes to raze all houses in the area bounded by 18th Street on the north, the railroad tracks on the south and between Cleveland Boulevard and State Street to make room for large offices or a medical building.

"That could be a hub to bring business in, keep St. Louis workers here and bring back business," Decatur contended. He said such a project could be funded by the city, federal grants and private capital. "We need a joint effort on this," he added.

During the speeches which preceded the question and answer period, Mayor Schuler said he was proud of his record since he was first elected in 1973. "In eight years, the assessed valuation of the city and township has increased some $30 million and most, almost 99 percent, is in new and expanding industry," the mayor said.

He presented a list of industrial projects, including Granite City Steel, Michigan Metals, Pre-Coat Metals, Prairie Farms Dairy, Nestle Co., Feralloy, R & R Leasing, St. Elizabeth Medical Center and others, saying, "In the last four years, nearly $250 million

Seven persons said they do not plan to vote in April.

Asked what they feel should be the main issues in the campaign, the residents gave a wide variety of answers. Several wanted a cleaner city. Others said they feel the next mayor should concentrate on getting more jobs in the city and improving the economy.

Others said the downtown area should be helped, wanted Kirkpatrick Homes improved, wanted more local control of the dollars, and wished to see more cooperation between city departments. One woman wanted to abolish the township government, contending aldermen should not be paid as aldermen and also as town board members for attending the same meetings.

Schuler supporters said they were swayed by different factors. Two said the overpass was a major factor. One woman said, "He got us an overpass. That's good enough for me."

Another was pleased that she purchased her house through the city's low-interest mortgage bond program, and supported Schuler for that reason.

Partney supporters were loyal in their support, most stating simply, "I believe he can do a better job."

Decatur's supporters also liked his man, "I'm for Decatur," he said.

Of the seven who said they do not plan to vote this April, two cited illnesses as the reason and the others said city government just didn't interest them. "I just don't vote, in any election," one man said firmly.

On the other side of the coin was a woman who sounded surprised to be asked if she planned to vote this April. "What? Of course I plan to vote. It's everyone's duty. I always vote," she said.

Schuler, Partney, Decatur. They are names everyone in Granite City will be hearing a lot about in the next 32 days.

One thing is clear: Who the next mayor will be is still undecided. It may well be the one who can capture the hearts of that 44 percent of those who plan to vote April 7 but have not yet made up their minds who should be the next mayor of Granite City.

Schools borrow

buyer for the former Stallings School, it was decided Tuesday. Also closed two years ago were McKinley School, later sold to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, and Washington School, leased to Belleville Area College as a daytime college class center.

On the recommendation of Curtis R. McDaniel, director of business affairs, the board approved immediately issuing $400,000 in education fund tax anticipation warrants, and transferred $141,981 from the working cash fund and $33,488 from the corporate personal property replacement tax fund, both going to the education fund.

McDaniel related, "We will need to issue another $300,000 in anticipation warrants April 3 to cover expenses at that time."

"Because of the Easter holidays—school is out from April 13 to 17—we will pay the certified staff a week earlier than normal, with payrolls April 3 and 10 instead of April 3 and 17. Because of this and other expenses, we will need to issue an additional $900,000 in warrants April 10."

"The demands in May and June will be lessened somewhat, even though May has three certified payrolls, since in May we will get about $250,000 in corporate replacement taxes plus a double payment of state aid in June, estimated at $1,718,568. As usual, we will not get any state aid in August."

"In the building fund, current investments will carry us through April 10, but at that time we will have to issue $150,000 in tax warrants to meet expenses. We are assuming we will, by then, need to pay $90,000 in architect fees for energy conservation and life safety surveys and as the last installment on boilers."

"Regarding the transportation fund, we should have enough cash to meet all needs for March 1981. If the needs of April are similar to those of a year ago, we will have enough monies from our claims, about $148,000, to meet April needs without borrowing."

"It is necessary to borrow on warrants earlier than last year because in 1980 we got our normal tax dollars, plus two quarters of corporate personal property replacement, a one-time windfall. Also, as of Jan. 1, 1981, we are receiving replacement taxes monthly instead of quarterly."

He added that 99 percent of property taxes had been paid last year, compared to 95 percent at present.

It was related that the interest rate paid on tax warrants will be 8 1/2 percent, described by administrators as "a very favorable rate."

Board Member Robert Maxwell commented that "tax anticipation warrants of those amounts scare me, even though it may be mainly a cash flow problem."

"When I have a cash flow problem in my bank account, it means I can't go out and spend. Any programs we commit ourselves to, we should fund. But we need to do something—and soon—to cut our programs."

A board discussion brought out that, while the public hearing will relate to teachers, other categories of school employees also are being reviewed for possible staff reductions.

There appeared to be a consensus that, since employees will be seeking raises in contract talks this spring and summer, it will be necessary to compensate for this by cutting the number of employees.

Categories mentioned included administrators, custodians, secretaries and cafeteria workers.

It was noted that, in addition to federal revenue cutbacks, the State Board of Education is reducing the amount of increase it has been seeking in the 1981-82 Illinois school aid budget. Supt. Davis cited the impact of economic inflation and said the school district has no choice but to "cut back on expenditures or raise additional revenue."

The building fund has been projected as receiving $5 million less than what is needed to "halt roof leaks" and to carry out other essential work during the next five years. The education fund also is described as being under severe pressure.

Mofsky said some citizens appear to be incorrectly assuming that the district has done little to trim expenses. He cited massive staff reductions in addition to school closings.

Board Member David Partney suggested a letter to department heads limiting expenditures to items of "A Number One priority," and Supt. Davis said, "That's already been done."

The superintendent commented that "Wheaton is closing a high school this year" and that many other school systems are taking drastic steps to match their income and costs.

Partney estimated that it may be September before the bulk of property taxes has been received.

Supt. Davis outlined the cost and revenue reports that are being prepared for board consideration March 24, and summarized the financial dilemma by saying that "everyone wants us to save money, but they don't want us to close buildings and consolidate programs."

A resolution prepared for board action later this month directs the president and secretary "to send out notices to honorably terminate the services of the following named teachers for the school year 1981-82 to reduce the teaching staff to a level adequate to meet educational purposes." The list of names is not yet official but is under preparation.

Guilty of murder in knifing fatality

J. B. Hayes Jr., 18, Granite City, was found guilty Monday of the fatal knifing of James Naylor, 22, of 2315 Illinois Ave. on July 10.

Mr. Naylor was struck in the lower right back by a butcher knife that was thrown 10 feet through the air during a disagreement in the 2200 block of Lee Avenue.

He suffered a deep, 12-inch cut and is believed to have died of a liver injury within moments of being struck. He could not be revived during emergency treatment that continued for 35 minutes.

Murder and conspiracy charges against John Arnett, 19, Granite City, were dismissed during the fall of 1980. Arnett then was sentenced to 3 1/2 years in prison for aggravated battery in the Naylor death. Madison County Circuit Judge Philip J. Rarick issued the guilty verdict in the bench trial of Hayes on a murder charge. Hayes faces a possible prison sentence of 20 to 40 years.

No date was set for the sentencing, but it is expected to take place in about 30 days.

In the four-day trial last week, Hayes testified that he threw the knife but did not mean to kill Mr. Naylor. He added that he thought the victim was about to point a pistol at him; police said Mr. Naylor had no pistol.

Citing the way the victim turned toward him, Hayes testified, "I didn't know if he had a gun and might shoot me. I threw the knife but not particularly at him. I didn't expect it to kill him, I'll tell you that."

Arnett, a Menard Prison inmate, testified that he provoked the incident by lying to friends, including Hayes, that Mr. Naylor had cut him on his hand.

Arnett alleged he had been beaten by Mr. Naylor and another man that night, and that he, Hayes, and another youth had armed themselves with knives to deter assaults.

He conceded that he had thrown a can at Mr. Naylor in the early evening "just for the heck of it." Then, he said, he was hit and kicked in a later confrontation outside Mr. Naylor's girlfriend's house, prompting him to lead Hayes and a 17-year-old back to the scene for "a fair fight."

Assistant State's Attorney Keith Jensen pictured Hayes and Mr. Naylor as participants in "a neighborhood rumble."

Questioning by defense counsel William Brandt brought out that the knives were carried to prevent the Naylor group from turning the desired "fair fight" into a brawl.

Hayes said he originally denied that he threw the knife because he was afraid authorities would "bust my head."

Prosecution witnesses said Mr. Naylor was being led back into the house by his girlfriend's mother when he was wounded. Hayes denied that he yelled, "If you won't do it, I will," just before throwing the knife.

Mrs. Susan Lance testified that Mr. Naylor stumbled through her front door, collapsed and said, "I'm dying."

She said the argument had been unprovoked, and that Arnett had called Mr. Naylor names as she and Mr. Naylor walked down an alley near her home; later, outside her home, Mr. Naylor took a wooden bat away from Arnett, she testified.

Board ordered to halt 'telephone' meetings

Meetings of the Granite City Board of Appeals held over the telephone when it is difficult to obtain a quorum for a public meeting by Alderman Charles Douglas of the First Ward at a recent council session.

Occasionally, when the board had only one or two requests for zoning variances and there were no known objectors, Planning and Zoning Secretary Bill

Dallas Jr. would poll the board members by telephone to get approval for the requests, a practice which was challenged by Alderman Charles Douglas of the First Ward at a recent council session.

Based upon the written opinion, Mayor Paul Schulz told the council that he would ask the Board of Appeals to discontinue the practice of having telephone meetings and would encourage them to hold more public meetings.

telephone approvals and found "no impropriety" but said the practice of telephone meetings appears "not to be in convention of the law and is not most appropriate."

He said that since the board only advises the city council, which then takes final action, the advisory telephone calls on zoning variances do not violate the Open Meetings Act.

Based upon the written opinion, Mayor Paul Schulz told the council that he would ask the Board of Appeals to discontinue the practice of having telephone meetings and would encourage them to hold more public meetings.

File charges in Madison shooting

Jeff Nornberg, 36, St. Louis, has been charged by Madison police with aggravated battery in connection with the shooting of Curtis Holmes, 25, of 1534 Fifth St., Madison, in the Red Crown Liquor Store, Third Street and Madison Avenue, Feb. 20.

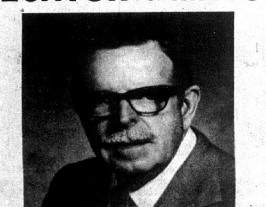

Holmes, who was shot in the back during a disagreement in the liquor store, is charged with battery for allegedly punching Nornberg and breaking his nose and glasses moments before the shooting.

Madison police alleged that Holmes, who had been fired from his job as an employee of the city earlier that day returned to discuss the firing with Nornberg, the owner. A fight ensued and Holmes was shot with a .38 caliber pistol. He underwent surgery at St. Elizabeth Medical Center and is recovering, authorities said.

Holmes' bond is set at $5,000. Nornberg surrendered to police last week and was released on a $25,000 recognizance bond.

SUFFERS FRACTURE:
Four charges filed
Two counts of battery were filed early this week against Brian K. Towery, 17, of 2929 Pershing Blvd., for allegedly using a fist to strike the faces of Dennis Collins and the Teri Raymer outside the Raymer apartment at 2008 Washington Ave. He also was charged with disorderly conduct for "allegedly creating a disturbance there and with interfering with and attempting to strike a policeman."

He was arrested in an alley after jumping a fence and running, Towery fell several times while being chased, but declined to accept a $100 bond. He was held at St. Elizabeth Medical Center for a right hand fracture and removed a splint that had been applied. He was released from custody Monday on $337 bail.

County strike is possibility

A strike by Madison County governmental employees is a possibility, perhaps lasting two months, in the opinion of Assistant State's Attorney Marshall Smith, but others say a walkout is not imminent.

The County Board decided during a special meeting Monday night to seek to negotiate with a single bargaining unit, even if that requires a bargaining election.

American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Local 799 and Teamsters Local 525 agreed Jan. 14 to divide representation of 400 courthouse employees. The former union is based at Mount Vernon and the latter at Alton.

Local 799 President Pam Dymas has said there may be a strike if the board does not approve a contract by the end of the fiscal year that began Dec. 1. Some elected county officials earlier in the year asked the board to help negotiate their own salaries, but the union declined.

Local 525 sought a joint meeting with the AFSCME yesterday but canceled it. Such a meeting may take place tomorrow.

Mrs. Ruth McCarty, a nurse, at Maryville and Johnson schools in Granite City, will retire from the school district with the end of the term June 5.

She has been a school nurse here 22 years, serving in nine different elementary schools. Her retirement plans were approved by the Board of Education on Tuesday night.

Also retiring June 5 will be Ralph K. Craycraft, a teacher at Marshall School. He has been a teacher in District Nine for 16 years.

Taking early retirement at that time will be Cleo Ulm, a teacher 35 years who has been employed in the Granite City district for 25 years. She is the learning center teacher at Logan School.

Those added to the Vocational Advisory Council of the district were Sharon Werner, Phyllis Weiss, Joy Champion, Ruth Houser and Joyce Sikora.

Dr. C. M. Ward, Chancellor of Bethany Bible College in Santa Cruz, Calif., and former president of the college is one of America's foremost evangelists and radio speakers. He will be in Granite City at Tri-City Park Tabernacle on Sunday, March 8, at 10:45 a.m.

Dr. Ward, a former pastor, Bible College instructor and editor moved to the West Coast in 1973 to become president of Bethany Bible College, the senior campus of the Assemblies of God.

He was the radio evangelist for Revivaltime, the international radio voice of the Assemblies of God, and heard weekly by millions who listen to the broadcast.

In addition to his 23 hard-back volumes of radio sermons, Dr. Ward has authored well over 250 booklets, has the entire Bible recorded on cassette and 8-track tapes with him reading the Scriptures.

He will be in Granite City at Tri-City Park Tabernacle on Sunday, March 8, at 10:45 a.m.

Air shows 15 percent improvement in 1980

The level of suspended particulates in the air of Granite City declined more than 15 percent in 1980 over the levels in 1979, according to the final annual figures collected by the Granite City Air Pollution Control Department and Granite City may no longer be the "dirtiest city in Illinois," according to Paula Case, director of that department.

Mrs. Case said she was very happy with the final 1980 figures, which will be made public when the department's annual report is completed in early April.

Mrs. Case explained that in 1979, the two sites recording the highest particulate pollution in Granite City were at 2001 E. 20th St., with an annual geometric means (average) of 215 micrograms per cubic meter, and at the measuring station near the Norfolk & Western Railroad tracks with 165 micrograms per cubic meter.

This year, the average mean declined to 182 at the East 20th Street site and 140 at the railroad measuring station, she said. The data showed a 15.35 percent decline at the first site and a 15.2 percent decline near the railroad tracks.

"The other seven stations reported slight changes in recorded levels of particulates, but were insignificant in nature," Mrs. Case added.

Whether the improvement in the levels of suspended particles will remain the highest in the state or the city will willingly surrender the crown to another city for 1980 will not be determined until the annual air quality reports of the other cities are made available, it was explained.

HITS CONCRETE POST

Patricia M. Thomas, 38, of 2512 Madison Ave., sustained minor injuries at 12:10 p.m. Monday when her south-bound auto jumped curbing in the 3100 block of Madison Avenue and hit a concrete Illinois Power Co. utility standard. The car, damaged about the front, was towed away.

Machinery failure closes auxiliary lock

Effective Monday, March 2, and until further notice, the 600-foot auxiliary lock at Locks No. 27, Granite City, was closed to vessel traffic.

"Closure of the auxiliary lock is required because of failure of operating machinery for the lower right miter gate leaf," it was explained by James A. Petersen, chief, Operations Division, St. Louis Engineer Corps District.

"All vessel operators are requested to adhere to the lockmaster's instructions in order to minimize overall vessel delays during the closure period," he added.

The 1,200-foot lock here remains in use.

Decatur

Decatur said he arrived home and his wife had a very important message for him to call an area retailer who was vacationing in the South.

Decatur called long-distance and, in his words, "(The retailer) told me that (the stock broker and bookkeeper) had been to (the retailer's store) that morning and asked (the retailer's son) to call his father and say he wanted (the father) to give me this message."

"(The retailer) said on the phone, 'I've got a message for you.' First, the campaign would be very dirty and Mrs. Decatur wouldn't be able to take the allegations about me."

"Second, he said my work record was very bad and he would expose the many companies I have worked for in the last five years," Decatur said, adding, "It is just not true. I have not worked for many companies and I have a good work record."

"Third," Decatur said of the message, "I was told it would be brought out that I consistently vote with Schuler. Big deal. A lot of those are voice votes and when you see the rest of the council is for something, it is not worth voting against it."

"Fourth, I was told there was $10,000 for me if I agreed to run for clerk. I don't know if the money was for a campaign treasury, for me or what the purpose was."

"Fifth, I was told that (my boss) would fire me if I ran for mayor. If I would go for clerk, I would stay at work," Decatur contended, saying he later talked to his boss and was told no such agreement was made.

Decatur said he turned down the offer and hung up.

Monday, Jan. 26, the last day for filing candidate petitions passed without incident, he said. The only incident since that date was Sunday, Feb. 22, when a friend Decatur did not wish to name called him and said that (the stock broker) wanted to talk to him.

"He said (the broker) didn't care about the mayor's race and was interested in (Tom) Nesbit (candidate for Granite City Township supervisor on Partney's ticket) getting elected. He (the friend) asked me to meet (the broker) in the Partney campaign headquarters the following Monday."

"In the Partney headquarters? I told him to forget it. That would be like walking into the lion's den. I refused," Decatur related.

"I am making this public because there is so much street talk I keep hearing and I think we should set the record straight," the candidate concluded.

More council

the motion was seconded by Alderman Mac Warfield.

Whitmer suggested that Hagnauer be contacted about the availability of the building before such a decision is made.

"If it can be worked out between the township people and the city people, fine," Whitmer said.

Alderman Roy Paulos of the Third Ward disagreed, saying he feels two meetings a month in the town hall would be sufficient with the third meeting being held in the city hall. The council meets the first, third and fourth Tuesday of each month.

Mayor Paul Schuler said such an action would require preparation and passage of an ordinance and Hagnauer could be consulted on the availability of the building while the ordinance was being prepared.

He asked for a voice vote on a motion to bring in an ordinance designating certain meetings in the town hall and the motion was approved unanimously.

The council also approved a motion made by Alderman Charles Douglas of the First Ward that the city engineer study the cost and feasibility of providing an elevator or some kind of transportation for the handicapped to the third floor of city hall.

Not only are the handicapped, including the elderly who cannot climb numerous stairs, prohibited from attending city council meetings in city hall, they also are prohibited from going to the circuit clerk's office, main courtroom, legal library or mayor's office, all of which are on the third floor, Douglas said.

The council also heard from Melba Grady, spokesman for the Parents for Special Education and the Association for the Retarded, who said, "The handicapped should not be denied the right to be productive citizens. They should be accepted, not excluded."

Mrs. Grady also stated, "The handicapped's biggest handicap is our community, as it exists."

Diocese

Catholics of the Springfield Diocese have contributed approximately one-half million dollars to Catholic Relief Services, the largest private overseas relief agency in the United States. A total of $180,000 of this, collected in the Rice Bowl on the family table, was earmarked for the relief of worldwide hunger.

The $50,000 being made available today to Hunger, Inc. represents Rice Bowl funds contributed for the relief of domestic hunger. The remaining $50,000 will be raised through this year's Rice Bowl and hopefully through public contributions.

Officers of the new corporation will be Hugh Graham III, president; Mrs. Mardelle Flynn, vice president; Mrs. Prokopy, treasurer, and Father John Brähler, secretary. Bishop Joseph A. McNicholas will serve as Chairman of the corporation.

All contributions are tax deductible.

Checks may be made out to Hunger, Incorporated and sent to 524 East Lawrence Ave., Springfield, 62705.

While $100,000 is a very limited sum in view of the needs that exist across the 28 county Diocese of Springfield, Ill., it represents an effort under the leadership of the Catholic Diocese to spotlight human need and to make a conscientious effort to respond to that need.

Detour may further confuse drivers in West Granite

Beware, drivers in West Granite. The traffic flow has become confusing enough due to construction of the 19th Street overpass, but is about to become more confusing.

Due to the rapid progress on the overpass, the time is approaching to close the eastern ends of 19th Street, West 20th Street and Ohio Avenue in West Granite to prepare approaches for the overpass, the city council was informed Tuesday night.

The closings will occur in late April or early May and will cause a detour route to be set up using Jefferson Avenue to Cayuga Street to Rock Road, to 21st Street, to Missouri Avenue in order to drive across West Granite.

The following streets will be limited to local traffic only—W. 20th St., Rock Road, Ohio Ave., Nevada Ave., Denver St., Dewey Avenue and Illinois Ave., the council was told.

Permission was granted to Edward Schulze, highway and traffic engineer for the city, to establish the detour when the work begins.

$15,000 circuit breaker level is being proposed

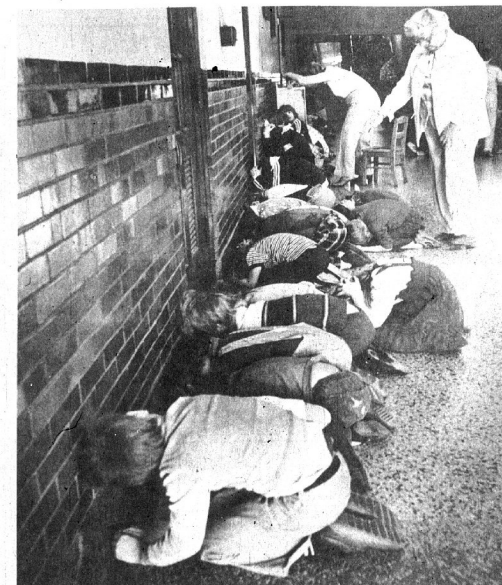

State Rep. Sam Wolf of Granite City reports that legislation on which he is a co-sponsor would broaden participation in the "circuit breaker" program for the elderly and the handicapped.

HB 111, endorsed by 96 of the House members, would increase the allowable annual household income for persons eligible for property tax circuit breaker grants from the present $12,000 to $15,000.

It would also increase the maximum grants for all participants in the program by decreasing the portion of household income used to limit grants from 5 to 4 percent.

Madison man soldier of year

Army Specialist Fourth class Thomas J. Field of Madison has been selected as the Army Troop Support and Aviation Materiel Readiness Command "soldier of the year" for 1980. The honor was bestowed on him Feb. 26 by Major General Emil L. Konopnicki, TSARCOM commander, in ceremonies conducted at the St. Louis Area Support Center in Granite City.

Soldier of the year is an honor bestowed on an outstanding individual who satisfactorily passes a series of service-connected and individual job-related tests. The award, in which Spec. Field was questioned in included military customs and courtesies, first aid, nuclear, biological and chemical warfare, leadership techniques, current events and weapons knowledge.

Field, a native of Honolulu, Hawaii, entered military service in August 1978. After graduating from basic combat training in October of that year, he attended the Defense Information School at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis, for advanced individual training in broadcast journalism.

He graduated in January 1979 and was assigned to the Public Affairs Office, Headquarters 2nd Infantry Division, Camp Casey, Korea.

While at Camp Casey, Field was a reporter and photographer for the Indianapolis Newspaper.

The interest he showed in broadening his knowledge in the field of mass communications led to his assignment to the Newscast Headquarters of AFKN in Seoul, Korea.

Field was assigned as a staff announcer for network news on both radio and television. His assignments while with the news staff included interviews with singer Bobby Rydell and the Dallas Cowboys cheerleaders.

In March 1980, Spec. Field was reassigned to Field Services Activity at TSARCOM. Since his arrival here, he has worked on several television productions and was instrumental in developing a TSARCOM

During the 11-week training cycle, he learned the basics of battlefield survival. A 1980 graduate of Granite City High School North, he joined the Marines in October.

LOCATE STOLEN CAR

Police at 5 p.m. Saturday checked a 1979 two-door auto parked in the 2400 block of Lynch Avenue and found it had been stolen Nov. 29 in St. Louis.

Import cut urged to aid the auto industry

The slump in the automobile manufacturing industry is a major reason that the St. Louis region's unemployment rate has averaged higher than the national jobs rate, Regional Commerce and Growth Association President James M. O'Flynn has told a U.S. Senate committee.

O'Flynn was one of several witnesses at a special hearing in St. Louis held by U.S. Sen. John C. Danforth, chairman of the Senate Committee on Commerce, Science and Transportation.

Danforth is holding hearings at a number of auto manufacturing centers to obtain suggestions for federal legislation that might help the automobile companies.

O'Flynn told Danforth he agreed with the senator that it would help if importation of Japanese automobiles were curbed, though he would prefer that any limitation be voluntary.

Danforth is backing a bill to place mandatory limits on Japanese imports.

O'Flynn also called for a moratorium until Sept. 30 on enforcement of Clean Air Act sections calling for increasingly stringent regulation of motor vehicle emissions. The act expires Sept. 30 and will be the subject of "extensive debate" before that time, O'Flynn pointed out.

A moratorium would provide short-term relief for the industry and would give Congress time to consider "more realistic application of environmental rules," he said.

The St. Louis region would benefit from federal assistance with two conditions resulting from changes in the automobile industry, O'Flynn said.

First, he said, displaced workers whose skills are no longer in demand need counseling, job search and retraining services.

The RCGA presently is cooperating in such a program for 1,000 displaced workers.

"We believe any additional federal assistance to such largely private-sector programs would be cost-effective," he said. "It would head off some expensive social problems that may be down the road if those workers remain jobless."

Second, O'Flynn said, aging manufacturing plants in central urban areas, vacated by companies that build more efficient new plants in outlying areas, add to the burdens already weighing on central cities.

While recognizing that federal programs "we might believe to be desirable, or even essential" will have to be reduced if inflation is to be curbed, O'Flynn said, "downward pressure on the cost of problems that go away when times get better."

"The principle embodied in the Urban Development Action Grant program—that of federal encouragement of private investment in depressed areas—is a sound one," he said.

"The concept of enterprise zones sounds promising as a way to improve trouble spots."

"Let me make it clear that I do not look upon the problems of central cities as a source of a new federal government alone."

"Our local governments, private-sector organizations like the RCGA, and our citizens themselves all must do their part."

"I would only ask that federal authorities work with us to improve those conditions which—while they might seem to be confined to certain declining parts of our area—have a depressing effect on our entire region."

The RCGA presently is

Girl Scout Week March 8-14

A parade involving some 900 Brownies, Girl Scouts, and adult volunteers Saturday morning, in downtown Granite City, will officially kick off the national observance of Girl Scout Week set March 8 through March 14.

The uniformed scouts will gather on the parking lot of the First Assembly of God Church, at 24th Street and Madison Avenue, and proceed south on Madison Avenue to Niedringhaus Avenue and then west to the City Hall of Granite City where color guards will post the American, Girl Scout and Girl Guide flags.

Mrs. Lynn Ross of Neighborhood Two will serve as parade coordinator with Mrs. Joyce Churchwell of Neighborhood Five and Mrs. Pam Meyers of Neighborhood Four assisting.

If inclement weather prevails the parade will be cancelled but the flags will be posted and remain at the City Hall for the entire week, Mrs. Ross explained.

Cadet Troop 328, led by Mrs. Diana Kinder and Mrs. Diane Swift, will lead the parade and post the colors.

During the anniversary week all troops will participate in various activities and projects relative to the event.

One of the unusual programs will be the "adoption" of a new baby girl born on March 12 by Junior Girl Scout Troop 196 of St. Elizabeth School, River Bluffs Council will provide a free "future Girl Scout" baby tee-shirt and the troop will continue to focus on the "young scout" throughout the year.

A fund raising drive of the council, Friends of Girl

Scouting, will also be in progress during the week as adult enrollees contact area businessmen for donations to the Girl Scout programs.

Mrs. Myra Parrish is the community chairman and will be assisted by Barbara Kerch, honorary community chairman.

Mrs. Parrish added, in 1981 half of the council operating budget will come from the cookie sales, and a fourth is United Way supported. The balance must come from program fees and gifts. All gifts is tax deductible, Mrs. Parrish noted.

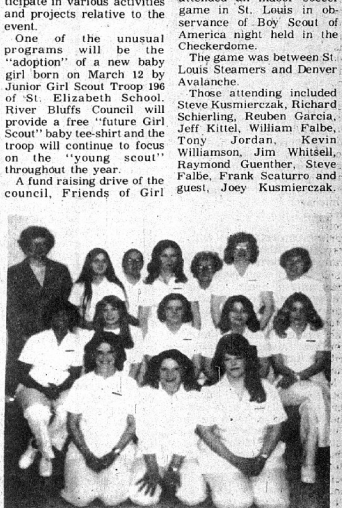

The council registers 600 troops involving over 10,000 girls in weekly troop activity. Over the past few years, the council has found the volunteers are carrying an ever-increasing load in the community, the schools, full and part-time employment and at home. As a result of this, they have requested more support from the council.

Volunteer for Sunny Shore safety patrol

Residents of the Sunny Shore Mobile Home Park in Mitchell have been the victims of vandalism and crime for too long and want to do something about it.

Several of the residents attended the last meeting of the Chouteau Town Board to which Mayor Fred Bright and Major Edwin Knezevich of the Madison County Sheriff's Department had been invited.

The residents indicated they would like to establish some kind of volunteer security force in the mobile home park under the authority of the sheriff's department.

Knezevich and Bright noted that citizen security forces elsewhere have not worked well and suggested the residents try to establish a program similar to the one in Granite City or the Concerned Homeowners in Jarvis Township.

Under those programs, residents are urged to watch for suspicious activities around their homes and their neighbors' homes and to write down license numbers, descriptions and other data, and to call the sheriff's department when there is an unusual occurrence.

The Sunny Shore residents agreed to discuss the idea further with their neighbors.

Pack blue and gold banquet

Cub Scouts of Pack 13 held their annual blue and gold banquet at St. Elizabeth's cafeteria, 1200 W. Main St., last night.

The banquet was given by the Cubmaster Alan Taylor, followed by the invocation by Father Henry Schmidt.

After dinner, the cubmaster introduced the guests, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Luebben, district commissioner, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gaudette, unit commissioner, Marvin Wisdmer, scoutmaster of Boy Scout Troop 13.

Also introduced were den mothers, Mrs. Gloria Heinz, Mrs. Candy Thompson, Mrs. Janet Neidhardt, Mrs. JoAnn Yurko, Mrs. Jackie Hackel and den dad, Joe Thomas.

The theme of the banquet was Indians. Tables were decorated with tiny tepees and blue and yellow confetti.

Opening ceremony and presentation of flags was by Den 1 and den mother, Mrs. Gloria Heinz. Den 1 cubs gave readings on Indian topics. Ben Heinz gave a reading on Sitting Bull, the Great Sioux Medicine Man.

Sitting Bull was very influential and gallant warrior of Sioux and Northern Cheyenne warriors who attacked Colonel George Custer's regiment and killed more than a third of it at Little Big Horn River on June 25, 1876. Later, he went on tour as the star of Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show. He never forgot his people and the suffering of being herded into reservations and kept up his agitation to the U.S. government until his death in 1890, according to the cub scout.

Steve Jachimo presented a reading on the Birchbark Canoe. The Indians' All-Purpose Craft, He explained the Algonquian Indians, north of the Great Lakes and near the Atlantic Ocean were the originators of the use of birchbark canoes. The Indians stripped long sheets of bark from the trees in early spring and fitted and stretched them over a framework of cedar splints. Aside from serving as an ideal means of travel, a traveler could sleep under it during bad weather, use it as a tool in hunting and warfare, and it became an important item of trade with other tribes and with the white man.

Mike Kromray spoke on the Buffalo Hunt, the Hunt for Survival, noting before the white man arrived in North America, it has been estimated that 60 million bison (commonly known as buffalo) roamed the plains between the Missouri River and the Rocky Mountains. These animals were an essential part of the Indian economy providing them with meat for food and leather for clothing, tepees, robes, moccasins, tops, quivers, medicine bags, shields, saddles, stirrups and dolls. Bones were made into knives, shovels, clubs; horns into cups, spoons and ladles, and even the stomach was used for skin ointment and water containers. The Indians very skillfully hunted several hundred buffalo at a time, each weighing sometimes up to a ton.

David Plantz gave the final reading on Geronimo, the Desert Warrior. In 1876, the U.S. Government decided to relocate the Chiricahua Apache tribe to an Indian reservation known as the San Carlos Agency on the Gila River in Arizona. And with that act, the government transformed a peaceful, unknown Apache into a dreaded renegade, called Geronimo. He was

The use of steel shot versus lead shot in waterfowl hunting had developed today in opposition by a representative of the Migratory Waterfowl Hunters, Inc., based in Godfrey, to a statement by a representative of the Lake landowner who favors the use of steel shot.

The issue resolves into the argument of whether more birds die of lead poisoning after being wounded by lead shot or drinking water in which lead has fallen, or whether there are more birds crippled by steel shot.

Nichols in a statement several weeks ago reported that persons attending an International Waterfowl symposium at New Orleans, La., had strongly supported the outlawing of the use of lead shot in waterfowl hunting.

In response, Miles Bruckman, secretary of the Migratory Waterfowl Hunters, claims the symposium gave no endorsement to such a recommendation at the symposium. Bruckman presented a paper at the symposium on the matter favoring the use of lead shot as being more effective.

Nichols maintained that a large number of geese which landed in the Horicon Marsh in central Wisconsin died of lead poisoning after eating shot lead in the water.

Bruckman, however, said, "No federal mandate, swipe of the pen or elaborate brochure is going to change the laws of physics and make steel shot as dense as lead or convince a duck hunter that it is all right to increase his crop loss just for the sake of shooting steel shot."

Nichols remarked, "For many years I, and hunting groups, have advocated the use of steel shot. Some hunters are resisting and poisoning the birds they intend to hunt in future years. They are killing our own sport."

For many years, Nichols has been a member of the Mississippi Flyway Council, made up of representatives of 13 states who meet semi-annually and make recommendations on the length of waterfowl seasons, total harvest each year and other regulations.

Bruckman said another concern is "with the increased cripple loss we have experienced due to the mandatory use of steel shot (in Illinois areas specified by law)."

Bruckman said there no doubt are cases where birds die from lead poisoning, but "how many, no one knows."

He said the department of Interior, Fish and Wildlife Service has spent a lot of money, time and effort in an endeavor to get anyone interested in hunting, they do not know the true magnitude.

The respiratory therapy open house planned by the respiratory therapy program at Maryville College-St. Louis will sponsor an informational open house for anyone interested in this career on Monday, March 16, from 5 to 8:30 p.m. in the multipurpose room.

Maryville College is located at U.S. Highway 40 and Woods Mill Road in the Woods Mill campus center. Respiratory therapy is one of the fastest growing allied health specialties, and an increase in the demand for such therapists is predicted for the 1980's. They work closely with physicians, caring for patients of all ages with diseases such as asthma, pneumonia, cystic fibrosis, emphysema and bronchitis.

Threadbare '30s here are recalled

The theme of the March issue of Illinois History magazine—a publication for teenagers sponsored by the Illinois State Historical Society—is "Economic Depressions."

(One of the articles is by Theresa Gwasdad, a student at Granite City High School. The article follows.)

"The Threadbare Thirties" by Theresa Gwasdad

Situated a few miles from the banks of the Mississippi River is the busy town of Granite City, Ill., a community that thrives from the production of steel.

Here, in the spring and summer of 1930, the steel mills were turning out products at the usual rate. In the fall of that year, shadows of the Great Depression loomed over the area.

A reduction in the manufacturing of steel soon resulted in a severe decline in the number of available jobs, and some mills closed. Because most of their parents were unemployed, the young people in Granite City had little money to spend. For lack of anything better to do, tree-sitting became a popular pastime.

During the summer of 1930, Junior Gasparovic and Howard Eggley established a new tree-sitting record by sitting in a huge cottonwood tree for two months. They were compelled to come down when school started on Sept. 5.

It is remembered that other young people could not afford to attend school but instead sought employment to help support their families.

Wages were often meager. Young girls baby-sat or cleaned homes for $3 a week. Most boys were allowed to finish high school, but some found work as farmhands in the wheat fields and corn fields of Madison County.

In the evenings, families hovered near the radio, their main source of entertainment. They listened to news about the economy, or "Amos 'n Andy," a comedy program.

Occasionally, parents could spare a nickel for a child to go to the movie theater, where a drawing was held between films. The person holding the lucky ticket won a free bag of groceries as a prize.

The salaries of schoolteachers, firemen and policemen were cut drastically in 1930.

Local corporations declared bankruptcy, banks closed, and some people lost their homes for non-payment of taxes.

About sixteen hundred families were receiving government relief.

In December 1934, local American Legion members scoured nearby fields in search of meat for Christmas dinners. Two hundred and forty-five rabbits were caught and given to needy families on Christmas Eve.

More than one-third of the total population of Granite City received economic aid in 1935.

Hard times continued until 1937, when the steel mills again opened and began to operate. As men were rehired, the number of families receiving government aid dropped.

Diocese concert, liturgy workshop

People of the Granite City area will be attending a Springfield Catholic Diocese "evening of song" to be presented by the Damsans at Dominicans Hall, Sacred Heart Academy, 1200 W. Washington, Springfield, Ill., at 7:30 p.m. Friday, March 13. They will be singing their own music, and that of other composers, and will utilize audience participation.

Tickets for the concert are: students, $2.50; adults, $3.50; and family rate, $9.

A liturgy and music workshop on Saturday, March 14, will also be held in Dominicans Hall. The workshop provides an opportunity for all people to deepen their love and appreciation of the liturgy.

It will focus on the liturgy of the Word, an overview of the liturgy of the Eucharist, and will reflect on all ministries, including that of music. Sessions will start at 9:30 and conclude at 3:30.

Admission fee for the workshop will be $7. Workshop registrants may attend the concert for an additional $3.

The public is invited to either or both of the sessions.

The Damsans are Fathers Darryl Duote, Michael Balhoff, Paul Cesar and Gary Ault. Their previous assignments are in three different dioceses in Louisiana.

For registrations or further information, Quadricity may contact the Office of Divine Worship, 3144 E. Lawrence Ave., Springfield, 62703 (phone: 217-753-2593).

Churches urged to make cleanup plans

The Quad-Cities Ministerial Association is urging all local churches to participate in the area-wide cleanup project scheduled for April 27 to May 1.

In a letter to the various churches, the Rev. Dave Maxton of First United Presbyterian Church is asking ministers to inform the ministerial association of their plans to improve their churches or neighborhoods during that week.

"The thrust of this experiment is to show the whole community that we are interested and have concern and pride for all of our community," Rev. Maxton said.

Recreation activities and the caring and charity of neighbors had helped the citizens of Granite City through the economic depression.

Simple errors delay tax refunds

Many of the errors that delay tax return processing are avoidable, the Internal Revenue Service Springfield district director said this week.

In 1980, for example, 7.1 percent of all Form 1040s and 6.2 percent of all Form 1040As contained at least one taxpayer mathematical error of some type.

Errors ranged from incorrect addition and subtraction to failure to compute the earned income credit properly.

Such problems resulted from taxpayers using the wrong tax table for their filing status, following the line for the wrong income level, and looking under the incorrect column for the number of exemptions for that taxpayer.

Other common errors on tax returns are not using the peel-off label and instead writing incorrect or illegible Social Security numbers, only one signature on a joint return, failure to attach W-2's, "Wage and Tax Statement," and failure to attach supporting forms and schedules.

The IRS advises taxpayers to double-check their returns prior to sending them in. Accurate returns are processed more quickly and resulting refunds are concluded.

Steel engineer change April 1

Promotion of Fred H. Steinkuehler to vice president of engineering of the Granite City Steel Division will be effective April 1. The announcement was made by Granite City Steel President James V. Stack and the National Steel Corporation vice-president of engineering, Milton Deener.

Steinkuehler succeeds John G. Despo, who is retiring March 31.

Granite City Steel is one of the steelmaking divisions of National Steel. The two companies merged in 1971.

With GCS since 1966, Steinkuehler most recently has been manager of planning and control in the engineering department. He has held a variety of other assignments, including superintendent of both steelworks maintenance and blast furnace maintenance.

A graduate of the University of Missouri-Rolla, he received his bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering there in 1962.

Steinkuehler is currently chairman of the St. Louis chapter of the Association of Iron and Steel Engineers. He resides in St. Louis County.

Despo joined GCS as director of engineering in 1970 from the United States Steel Corp., where he was manager of construction for the Chicago district.

A graduate of Worcester (Mass.) Polytechnic Institute with a degree in civil engineering, he worked for the Massachusetts State Highway Department and Metropolitan Boston Water Supply Commission before starting with U.S. Steel in 1941. He held a wide range of engineering management positions for that company. A registered professional engineer, Despo has been active in many professional and steel industry engineering organizations.

"I commend John Despo on the many valued contributions he has made to Granite City Steel," Stack said. "As he approaches the end of a distinguished career, he can retire with the knowledge that his efforts have been appreciated."

Despo plans to move to the Cleveland area after his retirement.

Vocational painting permits people not interested in art as a major to explore painting and drawing media.

Vocational ceramics is an introduction to ceramics. A hands-on experience, the course includes coil-building, extruding and constructions. Participants are introduced to a variety of firing techniques, such as primitive, pit, raku and salt firing.

Both classes will meet on Saturdays from 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at the Wagner Complex.

Visual organization I, concentrating on color and design problems, will meet on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 5:30 until 9:20 p.m. in Room 3200 of Classroom Building III.

Basic studio drawing II will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6:30 to 9:20 p.m. at the Wagner Complex.

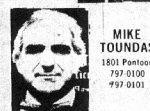

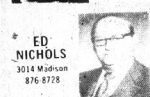

Modern art C will meet from 6:30 to 8:20 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays in Room 1410 of Peck Classroom Building. It is a survey of important artists and movements from 1900 to the present, including German expressionism, surrealism, the Bauhaus, modern architecture, and contemporary American painting and sculpture.

FIRST SLAB. The first continuously cast steel slab emerges red-hot on Monday from a newly installed slab casting machine at National Steel Corporation's Granite City Steel Division

Caster brings greater steel quality, efficiency

As announced in the Press-Record on Monday, the start-up that day of a mammoth slab casting machine at Granite City Steel enabled National Steel to become the first major domestic steelmaker to top 50 percent in production capability by the continuous casting method.

The process for turning hot metal directly into a continuous ribbon of solid steel is utilized for about a fifth of the raw steel produced by the domestic steel industry.

The caster at Granite City Steel is part of a $60 million program here that also includes adapting the two basic oxygen furnaces to the newest bottom-blown and bottom-stirring techniques for making steel.

Housed in a new 12-story mill building, the caster is the first machine of its kind in North America to utilize a remotely adjustable mold for varying the width of the continuous slab during operation.

The machine is capable of producing steel slabs 84 inches thick in widths between 46 inches and 84 inches.

As a slab continuously emerges red-hot from the caster at a rate of 40 to 60 inches per minute, depending on the grade of steel being cast, it is cut into lengths from 15 to 33 feet.

The cut slabs are transferred to cooling, inspection and storage areas.

Later, some are torch-cut longitudinally into two or three slabs to widths required by the plant's 80-inch hot strip rolling mill complex.

The Granite City Steel Casting facility has a capacity of 1.2 million tons, depending on product mix, and it is National Steel's third such unit. It joins the Great Lakes Steel Division's machine (near Detroit), which began operation in November 1977, and the Weirton Steel Division's caster at Weirton, W. Va.

The caster at Weirton started operation as the nation's first large-scale commercial steel slab casting machine in June 1968. The Great Lakes caster produces the widest slabs in the world (104 inches) and continues to set production records.

"Not only is Monday's successful operation a great technological achievement," said Howard M. Love, president and chief executive officer of National Steel, "but it goes a long way to helping our company to become 'the' low-cost producer in the industry."

"As a result, it will help us to realize greater stability in our earnings."

"In fact, National Steel has the capability of continuously casting over 55 percent of its slabs in 1981. This is far and away ahead of any of the other major domestic steelmakers."

"In short, through the new Granite City facility, we should be able to improve our operating efficiency and productivity as well as our product quality and competitive position," Love said.

The GC Steel casting facility is designed to handle about half of the plant's output.

Because it can cast slabs of varying widths "on the fly," or while casting, it gives Granite City Steel the ability to continue producing without having to shut down the machine to prepare for a different size.

The result is improved production efficiency, with caster output more closely matched to hot strip mill requirements, it was explained.

Basically, the machine is a single-strand, curved mold unit with a 40-foot casting radius.

Supplied and erected by Concast, it has a segment roller apron, so that segments can be removed conveniently for off-line maintenance via a car that runs parallel to the roller apron.

Molten steel is charged into the top of the caster from a ladle brought over from the plant's basic oxygen furnace shop (250-ton heat size).

Because more slabs can be produced from a given amount of liquid steel by the continuously cast method than by the conventional ingot-to-slab method, National Steel will be able to increase its capacity at the Granite City Steel Division with no change in hot metal production.

For instance, it is estimated that for every 100,000 tons of slabs per month produced by conventional ingot practice, GC Steel will be able to boost its slab production capability by an additional average of nearly 13,000 tons per month or roughly 158,000 tons of slabs per year with no change in liquid steel production.

There also are a number of commercial advantages to the slabs produced by the Granite City caster, according to company officials. They include:

1) Uniform chemistry obtained in the cast product which results in more uniform drawability in the sheet product made from the slab.

2) Better surface quality.

3) Better metallurgical properties for certain products, such as electrical grade steels.

4) Increased production of critical "hot-topped" steels for difficult-draw applications.

Granite City Steel President James V. Stack said another advantage of the new caster is its ability to save fuel energy.

He said savings of about 10 percent are achieved by elimination of the ingot-to-slab process.

Stack also noted that the facility was laid out so that, if demand warrants, a second slab-production strand could be added to the machine in the future—or an entirely new machine could be built near the existing one.

The Granite City Steel president stressed that the caster was built as part of the overall $60 million capital improvement project to give the division improved steelmaking furnaces as well as the new casting unit.

The first phase of the furnace improvement project—including research and development that eventually would give the plant top and bottom-blown and bottom-stirred basic oxygen furnaces—has now been completed.

In the initial furnace work, one vessel was outfitted with four special bottom tuyeres for introduction of gases to "stir" molten steel in the vessel.

With successful completion of these initial tests, Stack said, the plant is now working on advanced bottom-blown and bottom-stirring furnace designs.

He added that tests are under way presently with a top-blown, nine-bottom-tuyere design that will be used to introduce both gases and solids—such as oxygen, lime and carbons—into the bottom of the furnace for the first time.

Once all test work is completed, Stack added, final work will proceed to adapt both of the basic oxygen furnaces here to advanced steelmaking methods, involving both top and bottom blowing and stirring—"giving Granite City Steel important metallurgical and product advantages over its competitors."

Stack said he expects the furnace adaptations will be completed before the end of this quarter.

Earnings rise in 4th quarter

Post Corporation earned $2,742,000 or $1.50 per share in 1980 compared with $3,838,000 or $2.10 per share in 1979.

Fourth quarter earnings were $1,277,000 or 70 cents per share compared with $1,272,000 or 69 cents a year ago.

The company said the drop in earnings from 1979 to 1980 was caused principally by the National recession.

Operating profits of the company's newspaper division fell by 43 percent while those of the broadcast division were approximately the same as the year before.

In 1980, the broadcast division contributed 55 percent of the company's operating profits, the newspaper division 21 percent and the commercial printing division 14 percent.

The company said its somewhat improved performance in the fourth quarter was caused by a moderate improvement in business conditions plus lower interest costs than a year ago.

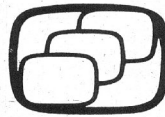

Post owns and operates TV and radio stations, newspapers and commercial printing plants in nine states.

Travelers honor past officers, slides of New Zealand trip.

Travelers Abroad held its February meeting last week at Prather Junior High School with two guests and 28 members in attendance. The president, Mary Evangelou, opened the meeting and welcomed the guests who were introduced to the group. They were Mr. and Mrs. Otis Hanson.

Mrs. Evangelou asked Betty Townsend to present Certificates of Commendation to five persons who have served as the Special Arrangements chairman for all of those 16 years. He has also served one year as president and two years as vice president in charge of programs.

Past presidents who were recognized were Bill Winter, Don Rouland, Dr. Alice Purdes, Harry Johnson, Col. Charles Schweizer, Roy Lynn, Alfred Stoeber, Ernie Rouland and Helen Krumm.

Vice presidents in charge of programs have included Don Rouland, Alice Purdes, Helen Gantcheff and Edmund Firmer, who has served for the past seven years. Secretaries and treasurers honored were Barbara Thoeke, Lois Huxel, the late Bea Cooley, Eunice Hatfield, Mildred McDowell, Julienne Hatcher, Dorothy Hodebeck, Lucinda Huxel, Mrs. Rongey, Ruth Huxel, Annelyn Smith, Helen Krumm, Gladys Pape, the late Edna Kohlbrecker, Genevieve McComis and the late Alfred Krumm.

Miss Townsend, program chairman, introduced Dr. Alice Purdes, a member of the faculty at Venice Grade School, and she escorted the group through New Zealand, Australia, and Tasmania via her narrated slide presentation with background music by the Maori people.

New Zealand is composed of two islands, with the North Island having the largest city—Auckland—and the national capital, Wellington. Our trip, taken during our summer season, resulted in the opposite weather in New Zealand. The hotel room in Auckland was luxurious, but extremely cold, the only warmth coming from one small ceiling heater. Auckland was named in honor of Lord Auckland, a governor-general of India, who was especially interested in the settlement of the country.

The War Memorial Museum contains the finest Maori collection in the world. Founded in 1852, it now commemorates the service and sacrifices from two world wars. A Maori canoe, hewn from a single log, capable of holding 100 paddlers, was on exhibition.

The national bird of New Zealand, the Kiwi, was shown in mounted form. This bird is flightless, wingless and tailless, and is covered with long, hair-like brown or gray feathers.

Traveling through the countryside, the audience saw many fields of sheep and Jersey cows. New Zealand has special fir trees, 75 percent of which are limited to this area of the world. Botanists from everywhere come to study these trees.

Rotorua is the home of many of the Maori, who are the descendants of the Polynesian seafarers who settled the area about 600 years ago. Most New Zealand souvenirs are made by these people and they are traditionally excellent wood carvers. Lacking knowledge of the written word, this group has preserved their early history through songs, chants, and symbolic dances. Their farewell song is "Now Is the Hour."

Visiting a special village, they found an impressive area. Geysers of all sizes, pools of boiling mud, hot mineral water, and richly colored craters draw the attention of the group. Dr. Purdes remarked that photographing this area, in the rain, was quite a challenge. Flax grown in this area is made into the Maori skirts. Leaving this village, the parting sign was translated to read, "Last We Forget."

One of the guides, Emma, bore a tattoo mark on her face. This mark of distinction is done only to certain mature girls. The tattoo resembles a Tiki with the tongue out, indicating defiance. Maori mythology says that Tiki was either the god responsible for the creation of the first human being or was himself the beginning of life.

Traveling on through Waikakei to Mt. Ruapehu, they encountered a snowstorm (on June 23). Even though we ran out of the snow, we were all soon buying winter clothing and packing summer items away. One of the main attractions on this North Island is the Waitomo Caves, which includes the Glow Worm Grotto. George Bernard Shaw called this "the eighth wonder of the world."

Visitors go by boat on an underground river to visit the grotto. Millions of tiny lanterns, which are actually the glow worms, light the walls and the roof of the grotto. This illumination is so brilliant here that one can read a book.

The next stop, according to Dr. Purdes, was Wellington, noted for its harbor, and with fishing and the making of building stone the main industries. Queenstown on South Island, we flew over Mt. Cook, the highest mountain in the South Pacific and the dominant peak of the chain of mountains called the Southern Alps. Soon after arriving in Queenstown and driving farther south, we encountered the weather again. Lacking central heating in our accommodations, nearly everybody was wearing several layers of clothing to try to keep warm.

Avalanches, blocked roads, etc. changed the methods of transportation. Small, cloth-winged planes, seating eight persons, replaced the bus as we winged our way into Milford Sound. This Sound is the best-known of a series of magnificent fjords which penetrate deeply into the southwestern coast of the South Island. The famous Sublimate Falls, among the highest in the world, are located here and actually descend in three leaps. After spending most of the day in the area, according to Dr. Purdes, the group realized that here nature still rules.

The next stop was "The Hermitage," a world-famous resort hotel. On the way by bus to see the Tasman Glacier, the weather won again. The narrow road became too slick, and we were forced to back down the mountains for seven miles before finding a spot wide enough to turn around.

Returning to Christchurch, the group left New Zealand and flew on to Sydney, Australia. Sydney is Australia's oldest, largest and liveliest city with a population of several million. It has a climate which favors any kind of outdoor activities and particularly those involving the ocean. Sydney, according to Dr. Purdes, is a garden city with large natural reserves, wild areas, and a chain of golden beaches.

We visited a Koala bear farm and learned that the Koala is a marsupial that is quite harmless and lives entirely on a diet of eucalyptus leaves. The number of these creatures has diminished greatly due to human settlement bringing in disease epidemics through the livestock.

Also, at this farm were the Kangaroos. When sitting normally erect, they ranged in height from one to five feet. Technically, the large ones are kangaroos, the mid-size are wallabies, and the smallest are rat-kangaroos. Despite their diet of grass and plants, they enjoyed the potato chips and apples which the tourists fed them.

Next on the trip, said Dr. Purdes, will be Canberra, a city with a fixed plan for development which fits in perfectly with 20th century trends. Most of the public buildings are extremely modern. From Canberra the group flew to Hobart, Tasmania.

Tasmania is about 150 miles off the southeast coast of Australia and is generally conceded to be the most thoroughly mountainous island in the world. Its vegetation remains green throughout most of the year. Originally it was populated entirely by convicts and the soldier guards. Sharks helped uphold the legend that no prisoner ever escaped.

Port Arthur, the focal point for most tourists, is the location of the penal settlement from 1830 to 1877 and which, at one time, housed 10,000 convicts from England and Ireland. Near this area we viewed the Tasman Arch, the Devil's Kitchen, and the Tasman Pavement, all formed by the pounding seas.

Continuing, the group flew back to Melbourne, Adelaide, and on to Perth, known as the "City of Light." About 3 million people live in this area, which is noted for its wild flowers and natural bushland. After an enjoyable trip "down under," Dr. Purdes said everyone was reluctant to leave.

March 16 deadline for Chouteau sewer grants

Low-income Chouteau Township residents planning to apply for sewer tap-on grants from the township must file their grant applications by Monday, March 16, at the township office, 697a North Thorngate Drive, Mitchell, to qualify for the program.

Those who have already applied or have expressed an interest in applying are being contacted by township employees to finalize the applications and begin issuing the grants, since the new county sewers are open and tap-ons have begun.

All residents planning to apply for a grant must do so prior to signing any contract for the installation of their home sewer, since the Madison County Community Development office, which is funding the grant program, will determine who the contractor will be through competitive bidding.

Contractors must post a $100,000 insurance bond with the community development office to be eligible to bid on home sewer installations, it was explained. Bids will be opened in Edwardsville and interested contractors are being urged to contact the community development office in Edwardsville for specifications and details.

Income tax law changes

This year, taxpayers may find that a few changes in the federal tax law will affect how they file their income tax forms, the Internal Revenue Service says. For most taxpayers, however, the tax forms offer few surprises from last year.

For those interested in claiming the residential energy credit, there is an increase in the amount which can be claimed.

The energy credit is actually made up of two separate credits.

The credit for renewable energy source costs is 40 percent of the first $10,000 (or a maximum credit of $4,000) spent on solar, geothermal, or windpower energy equipment. This credit is based on the cost of the items installed after April 19, 1977, and before 1986.

Previously, the credit for renewable energy source costs was 30 percent of the first $2,000 plus 20 percent of the next $8,000 (or a maximum credit of $2,200).

The credit for energy conservation costs is 15 percent of the first $2,000 (or maximum credit of $300) that a taxpayer spends on items to save energy, such as insulation and storm windows.

More information concerning the energy credits is available in the free IRS Publication 903, "Energy Credits for Individuals."

Another change focuses on the Social Security tax. The wages subject to the Social Security tax were increased from $22,900 to $25,000 for 1980. The rate of the tax was 6.13 percent.

For 1980, the maximum Social Security tax for an individual was $1,587.67 ($25,000 times 6.13 percent). Taxpayers should note that the amount of wages subject to this tax increased again for 1981, the IRS says. If a taxpayer worked for only one employer in 1980 and more than $1,587.67 of Social Security tax was withheld, the taxpayer should ask the employer to refund the excess tax withheld.

If a taxpayer worked for two or more employers and more than $1,587.67 was withheld, the excess may be claimed as a credit against the income tax owed on Form 1040 or Form 1040A.

The standard mileage rate for business use of a car has increased from 18½ to 20 cents for the first 15,000 miles and from 10 cents to 11 cents for each additional mile.

The rate for medical, moving expense, and charitable uses has increased from eight to nine cents a mile.

More information about changes in the tax law can be found in the free IRS Publication 553, "Highlights of 1980 Tax Changes," available by using the order form in the tax package or by calling the IRS Forms and Tax Information number listed in the telephone directory.

ARREST FOR FLEEING
Anthony Eastep, 18, of 2241 Miracle Ave. was arrested for reckless driving and leaving an accident scene at 12:10 a.m. Sunday after an auto skidded during a turn and struck a tree in the yard of Richard Atkinson, 2107 Woodlawn Ave.

ZONING HEARING
The Madison County Zoning Board of Appeals will hold an on-site public hearing at 9:15 a.m. Monday on Chouteau Island where Richard Wilkinson is requesting a variance to construct a 56 by 60-foot pole barn in a flood hazard area. The property is in Chouteau Township and may be reached by driving Chain of Rocks Road west onto the island and turning left on the first blacktop road to the yellow barn.

Steelers dump C-M in 'AA' opener

By PETE HAYES
Sports Editor

EDWARDSVILLE — The "new" Granite City North Steelers couldn't have waited for a better time to start playing their best basketball of the season.

North won its third straight game — and third of the season — here Wednesday night with a 57-53 decision over Civic Memorial (Bethalto) in the first round of the Edwardsville Class AA Regional Tournament. The Steelers' victory means that they will face Edwardsville Friday night for the regional championship and the right to advance to the Collinsville Class AA Sectional next week. Edwardsville played sluggish for three quarters before coming on strong late in the game to whip Roxana 71-46.

After losing 22 straight this season, Granite North has found out that it likes winning. "Feels pretty good," shouted a North player in the locker room after the game. "We ought to do this more often."

North head coach Bill Ohlendorf explained the difference between the "new" Steelers and the earlier edition. "We're putting the ball in the hole and playing with confidence," he said. "We're doing the little something extra it takes to get the extra basket or two that could make the difference."

North did exactly that all evening. Despite giving up a height advantage to the Eagles, the Steelers scrapped on the boards to get the offensive rebounds off missed shots — of which there were few.

"We got two stop baskets by hanging around the basket at the end of the half," said Ohlendorf. "Rich" Takmajian gets a rebound and scores at the buzzer. There's a senior who's out there contributing at the end of the season in a bleak situation. I'm very proud of him," Takmajian finished the game with 12 points. The top guns for the Steelers were Mike Sullivan and Harold Rody. Sullivan, a 6-1 junior, set up camp along the left baseline 18 feet out and made a habit out of swishing the ball in from there. He finished with 13 points. Rody got his shots from just about everywhere. The 5-11 junior finished the game with 14 points.

Not only did North burn the nets early in the game, but it was aided by an equally-cold Bethalto team. The Eagles couldn't buy a basket. But part of the problems was the pesky Steeler defense, which was all over the Eagles. "We stopped their penetration," said Ohlendorf.

North kept up the pressure in the second quarter and Bethalto looked like it still didn't believe what was happening. The Steelers ran out to a 31-22 halftime advantage.

At the beginning of the second half, there was an important turn of events. North went scoreless for nearly four minutes and Bethalto took the lead. The old Steelers probably would have given up and waited until next season. But not the new Steelers. "We didn't give up," said Ohlendorf. "We stopped penetrating and the shots weren't dropping. We had a few turnovers and it looked for a while like things might be getting out of hand." But they didn't. After John BELLEVIEWE — All year long Chris Boyd has had at least one supporting member on her team to help the Granite City South girls basketball squad chalk up 16 victories. But, in her last regular season game, Boyd bid farewell with a singles act.

Taking matters into her own hands, Boyd scored 23 points, her second best of the year, pushing the Warriors to a 56-45 Gateway East Conference victory over Belleville Althoff here Wednesday. The win gives South a perfect 8-0 record in conference play and a lock on the Gateway East crown.

Closing out the season with a 17-1 mark, the Warriors began the post-season play as they host their own regional tournament starting Monday at the South gymnasium. Seeded number one, South will take on the winner of Monday's Alton-Bethalto contest in a 6:30 p.m. game Tuesday.

If the Warriors needed any support to help Boyd's efforts, they got it for only a short while. South regained its one-two punch when Nita Graham caught an early hot hand and fired in four of six shots Boyd was already smoking, missing just one shot in five attempts. But the game belonged to Boyd and she turned on steam.

"Coach (Gary) Morgan told me to take the ball to the hole," said Boyd. "So, I did and I just started to hit." Morgan had to be thankful that Boyd was on her game, because nobody else was.

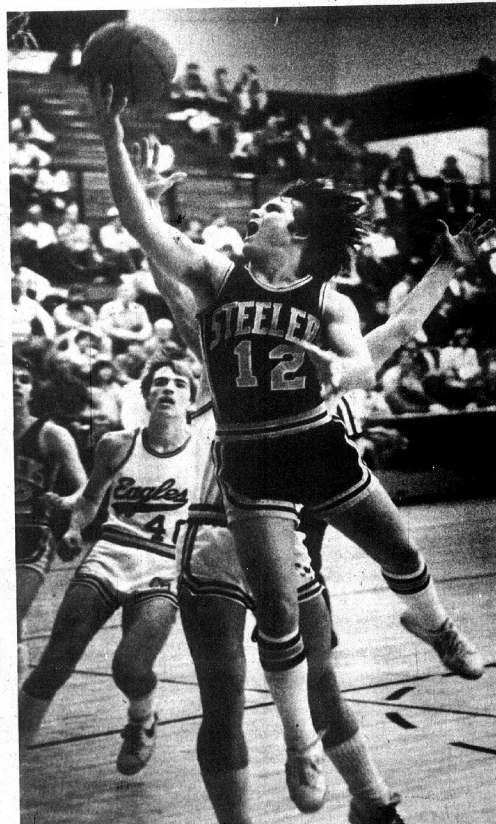

"Chris played a good game," said Morgan, who in his first year as coach, has seen his team run up a perfect GEC mark. "Everybody else just didn't play." The second quarter couldn't have made that more clear.

Kathy Sikora managed to grab a rebound and drop it in for the Warriors, but other than that it was all Boyd. South totaled 12 points in the quarter and Boyd had 10. "We have had support for Chris all year long," said Morgan. "We were due for a non-supporting role."

Althoff knew what Boyd was able to do. But, head coach Al Vele was also worried about Graham's fire power. "We figured Boyd would get her point-

Trojans romp past Vandalia

By TOM SCHOCKER
of the Press-Record

VANDALIA — Vandalia first-year head coach Rick Moss had seen Madison basketball teams before as head coach at Highland St. Paul. Unfortunately, it was the first time most of his Vandals had faced the Trojans. But, it shouldn't be anything special. Vandalia had proved its capability when it knocked off Effingham and 7-2 Uwe Blab earlier in the year.

It was just something about playing Madison, though. Vandalia certainly didn't look like the same giant killers in the Vandalia Sectional here Tuesday. Jumping out to a quick lead, Madison cruised to a 72-57 victory.

The Trojans (25-2) are only a game away from a "Sweet Sixteen." They'll have to get by the Bunker Hill Minutemen (26-0), who downed Trenton (Wesclin) last night (see related story). The sectional championship game Friday is set for 7:30 p.m.

If Vandalia had a reason to lose, it would have to be the reputation Madison has had in the past. "These kids have never faced Madison before," said Moss. "Maybe it was the fact that they were playing Madison that had something to do with it."

Whether they realized it or not, the Trojans have managed to use that so-called tactic against a number of teams. And in every case, Madison has been able to open up a quick lead. Vandalia was no exception.

Despite falling behind early, the Trojans put on a barrage of 12 unanswered points. In five minutes time Madison turned a three point deficit into a 12-point advantage. During that space, the Vandals were caught with nine turnovers.

"I would have used all five of my timeouts if I knew it would have settled them down," said Moss. Vandalia gave signs of regaining composure when it sunk the opening bucket of the second quarter; but again, Madison went on a rampage and settled off eight straight points. This time the Vandals went four minutes without a basket.

"(They (Vandalia) wanted to play us pretty bad," said Trojan head coach Larry Graham. "I guess it's something to play Madison and I think they were a little nervous. It may have hurt them in the beginning." It was evident, Vandalia had 18 turnovers in the first half. As they have done many times before, the Trojans baited Vandalia for the kill. Pat Hatter summed it up. "I shot in the first half and Morris (Hughes) shoots in the second half."

Hatter and Charles Claggett did their part and Hughes did his. Muscling in seven third quarter points, Hughes collected a game high 10 rebounds and 21 points. "I knew we couldn't allow them to get the ball to Hughes inside," said Moss. "We they do, he's nails."

Madison couldn't quite close the book on Vandalia, though. The Vandals caught a hot shooting hand, making six runs at the Trojans in the fourth quarter, knocking the margin to eight points each time. But, a clutch bucket by Claggett from the top of the key and steal by Kerwin Stanley for an open lay-up turned the game around. Vandalia had cut the Madison difference to six and in less than 10 seconds the Vandals found themselves down by 10 points, again.

"If anything was a turning point, the play with Claggett and Stanley would have to be it," said Graham. "You have to give them (Vandalia) credit, they hung in there. They made good shots and got the ball exactly where they wanted it."

Again, it was mistakes that cost Vandalia late in the game. "They're (Madison) good and they cause mistakes," said Moss. "There is no reason that we should have had that many turnovers. We did it early against Effingham and came back. I thought we could do it again, but you can't and expect to come back against Madison."

Vandalia's drive fizzled out as Hatter and Claggett continued their long range shooting. "If we think we have the shots, we take them," said Hatter. "I'm not hesitant about taking those shots." He proved that. A pair of 20 foot corner shots from Hatter and a three point play from Claggett buried the Vandals for good. Hatter and Claggett drilled in 15 and 17 points respectively.

TROJANS—Morris Hughes 21, Charles Claggett 17, Pat Hatter 15, Zarr S, Stanley 5, Madgett 2, Page 2, Grayford 2. FG 31, FT 10, PF 10.

Minutemen roll

VANDALIA — The Bunker Hill High School Minutemen ran their record to 26-0 on the season here Wednesday night with a 68-52 victory over Wesclin (Trenton) in the semifinals of the Vandalia Class A Sectional one-two scoring punch of Tournament, Bunker Hill Doug Stagner and Doug Sauerwein. Stagner scored 21 points, while Sauerwein pumped in 19 for the Minutemen. Bunker Hill held only a 29-26 halftime lead, but rolled over the Wesclin in the second half.

In other Sectional action, Martinsville remained the state's only undefeated Class A team with a 67-51 romp over Fairfield in the semifinals of the Bridgeport Sectional.

Cougars qualify two

EDWARDSVILLE — Carried by fine performances by Tom Reed and Tim Ervin, the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville wrestling squad placed a solid seventh in the NCAA Division II national championships this past weekend. Both Reed and Ervin finished second in their respective weight classes, earning All-American honors. It is the fourth such award for the 118-pound Reed and the third for the 142-pound Ervin. The meet was held at Davis, Calif. The Cougars scored 36 points in the meet which was swept by the defending champions, California-Bakersfield, scoring 144.5. The Eastern Illinois U. Panthers were a distant second with 92.5, and Nebraska-Omaha took third with 53. Fourth place went to Humboldt State with 45.75, fifth to North Dakota State with 43, and sixth to Ashland College with 41.5. Humboldt and Ashland were the surprises of the tournament, making their first appearance in the top 10. Augustana (S.D.) and Morgan State tied for eighth at 32.75, while South Dakota State was tenth at 21.25. Each of the Cougar finalists lost to an old Nemesis. Reed fell 20-12 in the 118-pound finals to Bakersfield's sophomore, Adam Cuestas. Cuestas had beaten Reed in a dual meet this season, 17-9, and used his excellent takedown ability to deny Reed's bid for the national crown. Ervin fell 10-2 to Nebraska-Omaha's Ryan Kauffman, who was responsible for three of Ervin's five losses this year. Reed was unchallenged until the finals as he cruised through his first three matches with two falls and a 9-0 victory before running into the buzz saw, Cuestas.

Ervin won by scores of 23-0, 5-4, 22-2 and 10-7 before losing to Kauffman. The biggest disappointment of the tournament for the Cougars was senior home game, against the All-American Norm Mitchell, who failed to place. Mitchell fell to Myron Fiest of North Dakota State, 21-15, in the first round and was eliminated. Steve Koch, SIUE's 150-pounder, was the only other Cougar to win a match. After losing to the eventual champion, Glenn Cooper of Bakersfield, Koch defeated Dennis Stokes of St. Cloud State, 9-2, before falling to Rob Kuintzle of Cal-Chico, 10-5.

SIUE Heavyweight Tim Printz was pinned by the meet's eventual champion, Mike Howe, of Northern Michigan, and the Cougars' 167-pound Mike Babcock was beaten by All-American John Reves of Pittsburgh-Johnstown, 9-2. Bakersfield had four champions: 118-pound Cuestas, his brother, 197-pound Dan Cuestas, 150-pound Cooper, and 158-pound Perry Shea. Eastern Illinois had two champions: 167-pound Mike Polz and 177-pound Dennis McCormick. By finishing second, Reed and Ervin qualify for the NCAA Division I tournament, which will be held March 10-12 at Princeton University.

Big Red schedule

St. Louis (STL WIRE NEWS) — The St. Louis Cardinals' 1981 pre-season schedule includes one home game, against the All-American Norm Mitchell, who failed to place. Mitchell fell to Myron Fiest of North Dakota State, 21-15, in the first round and was eliminated.

Steve Koch, SIUE's 150-pounder, was the only other Cougar to win a match. After losing to the eventual champion, Glenn Cooper of Bakersfield, Koch defeated Dennis Stokes of St. Cloud State, 9-2, before falling to Rob Kuintzle of Cal-Chico, 10-5.

The Cardinals open their pre-season schedule against the San Diego Chargers on Saturday, Aug. 8 in an 8 p.m. game (St. Louis time). It will be the first of three consecutive road games, followed by visits to Seattle and Kansas City. The seahawks will host the Big Red in a Friday night game, Aug. 14. Kickoff is scheduled for 9:30 p.m. (St. Louis time). The Cardinals then travel to Kansas City for the annual Governor's Cup Game with the Chiefs on Saturday, Aug. 22 at 7:30 p.m. before wrapping up the pre-season at home against the Bears.

South second

GRANITE CITY — The Granite City South girls basketball team finally did it — it passed rival Belleville West's Lady Maroons into second place in this week's Press-Record Girls' Prep Basketball Coaches' Poll. South finished one point ahead of West. That's somewhat ironic, since West handed South its only loss of the season back in January — by one point.

Powerful East St. Louis Lincoln, the defending Class AA state champion, remained right where it's been all season — in first place. The Tigerettes were a unanimous choice, just as they have been all season long.

Following West are Belleville Althoff, and Belleville East, followed by Triad, Collinsville, Madison and East St. Louis in a tie for eighth, and Mascoutah.

Lincoln edges fired-up GC Warriors

By PETER HAYES

Sports Editor of the Press-Record
EAST ST. LOUIS — Granite City South's basketball team lost a heartbreaker to powerful East St. Louis Lincoln here Tuesday night in the first round of the East St. Louis Class AA Regional. But the Warriors' 78-68 loss isn't the whole story.

On a night filled with courage and emotion, nobody was more courageous than South's senior center Eric Waltenberger, whose mother, Cecilia Waltenberger, passed away Tuesday morning at St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City.

She had told him she wanted him to play his basketball game Tuesday night.

It was hard, but Waltenberger played his heart out. His South teammates did too, not only for the team's sake, but for Eric too. When he fouled out with 3:34 left in the game after scoring 14 points, it was an emotional scene. Approaching the court this year more than any other, he was surrounded by his teammates who com-

ERIC WALTENBERGER ... 14 POINTS

That's saying something, too. South's loss ended its season with a 7-18 record.

"I've tried to stress to them all season that the win-loss record isn't that important," said Detering, "as long as they try and give their best."

"They sure did that tonight. Especially Eric. He's a hell of a kid."

Going up against Lincoln, 19-3 and ranked ninth in the state, wouldn't be easy.

Detering knew. With players like 6-6 juniors Tyrone Jackson and Todd Porter, it could get pretty rough. They did their thing, scoring 24 and 28 points respectively.

South's attack was paced by the phenomenal outside shooting of George Sykes.

The 6-2 senior drilled in an amazing 28 points — most of which were from the 30-foot range. Sykes, who uses an innocent looking set-shot, was red-hot from the floor. He made 13 of 21 field goal attempts. "He didn't miss very many," said Detering. "But I'm going to miss him next year."

South shot 50 percent from the floor (31 of 62). Lincoln was hotter though, making 36 of 64. In the high-scoring third quarter, South was 10 of 14 and Lincoln was 12 of 15.

South came out of the chute with fire in its eyes. The Warriors played Lincoln tight and surprisingly had little trouble with the Tigers' full-court press, breaking it time after time.

It was South's play on the perimeter that kept it in the ball game. With Sykes and 5-11 junior guard Jim Chast dropping the nets afire from the outside, the Warriors stayed close. Waltenberger was able to get loose inside a few times, but Lincoln's inside strength was too much.

"Their inside game killed us," said Detering. "That's not taking anything away from Eric, though. He did all he could do. But when you're 6-3 and they've got two guys in there 6-6, there's not too much you can do about it."

But South's defense and Lincoln's seeming inability to handle the basketball offset the Tigers' inside game — just not enough.

Even though the Warriors for the most part were able to break the press, there were several times when it did bother them in the second half. And that's when Lincoln made its move to open the lead. "About three or four segments there when the pressure got to us," said Detering. "That was the ball game."

South was called for not getting the ball over the half-court line in 10 seconds three times in the second half. During that stretch, Lincoln moved from a four point lead to a 17 point lead on two occasions. But South got back within eight points.

FG 3, where the margin stood most of the game.

Lincoln will face the winner of Wednesday's Collinsville-East St. Louis game Friday at 7:30 p.m. for the regional championship and the right to advance to the Collinsville Sectional next week.

Moore happy with his new GC soccer position

By PETER HAYES

Sports Editor of the Press-Record
BELLEVILLE — Mike Moore, the highly successful head soccer coach at Belleville Area College, has accepted the position of head coach and soccer coordinator at Soccer for Fun, Inc., the new 1.1 million dollar indoor soccer facility being completed in Pontoon Beach at 4141 Highway 111 near Pontoon Road.

Moore, 31, resigned Thursday from his full-time administrative position at BAC as Coordinator of Student Employment. However, he will remain as head soccer coach at BAC. "I'll be doing a little of everything there," Moore told the Press-Record. "A lot of it will be promotion, but there will be some coaching."

organizing recreational leagues, tournaments and all clinics that we'll hold. I'm really looking forward to it."

Since starting the soccer program at BAC eight seasons ago, Moore has piled up some impressive statistics. Through the just completed season, his record there is 75-44-6. The Dutchman advanced to the National Junior College Athletic Association Finals in 1974 and 1975. This past season, Moore's team, which featured four Granite Cityans in the lineup, finished with a 17-4 record and won the Illinois State (Region IV) championship and was ranked seventh in the nation in the final NCAAA poll. For his part in the team's success, Moore was named Illinois Junior College Coach of the Year and Midwest Coach of the Year by the United States Soccer Federation.

Even though the Soccer for Fun stadium is not yet completed, the playing surface is. And Granite Cityans and other area soccer enthusiasts couldn't wait until it was. Play has already begun. "The place has been booked 'til 11 in the morning every night since we started," said Moore. "I think this'll be a good step for me. I'm still involved with soccer."

When it's finally completed, the Soccer for Fun stadium will be a sight to behold. Besides a Major Indoor Soccer League size floor complete with Plexiglas surrounding the boards, it will house locker room facilities, a pro shop, a restaurant and lounge area.

MIKE MOORE

Soccer for Fun, Inc. is the brain-child of five area businessmen who will no doubt realize their investments soon, if the excitement already generated is any indication of how successful the stadium will be. According to Moore, it is the only facility in the United States designed specifically for the soccer fan.

GRANITE CITY —

Although her partner was different, Chris Boyd still maintained her part in the one-two punch for the Granite City South girls basketball team here Monday.

Buster knocked in the first two buckets and Boyd dropped in another.

TMH students learn swimming basics

More than 15 students enrolled in Trainable Mentally Handicapped (TMH) classes in Granite City School District 9 have been involved in a new learning experience through the cooperation of the Tri-City Area YMCA. TMH students from Coolidge Junior High School and Wilson School have been learning to swim and the results have been most rewarding for the students and the teaching staff. The classes meet at the "Y" pool each day for an hour session during which the basics of swimming are taught. For many of those participating it's a first-time experience. Several of the students caught on quickly, but for some the adaption to water was not so easy.

Above—an overview of the pool with students and instructors. At left—Superintendent of Schools B. J. Davis and Leigh Heller, physical education coordinator for the school district, watch some of the activities used in the teaching process. In the water, in foreground, Matt Frye floats on his back with a little help from Augusta Berkhead, a "Y" staff member and volunteer instructor. Behind them are Michael Schehl and Diane Evans, a TMH instructor at Coolidge. Both students attend the Wilson School center. At right—Joanne Higgins, adapted physical education teacher, gives instructions to two of the advanced swimmers Kerry Flinn, left, and Steve Crowder, both Coolidge students. Other instructors include Ann Harrell and Gail McCormick, both from Wilson School, and Beatrice Jones from Coolidge.

The program is designed to offer these students a continued swimming experience during the summer months and junior high years in an attempt to have them "drown proof" and ready for recreational swimming.

Our 'right' to health care?

(This is the seventh in a series of 15 articles exploring "The Nation's Health." In this article, Daniel Callahan, director of the Hastings Center, discusses ethical problems involved in deciding who should get how much health care. Copyright (c) 1980 by the Regents of the University of California.)

By DANIEL CALLAHAN
Nothing goes so unnoticed as good health.

When we have it, we think about other things; our well-functioning body allows us to do so.

But when we are sick, our illness drives out all thought and pleasure, and we become unwilling but total victims of its alien and obstructive power.

Worse still, even a mild illness reminds us of our mortality.

In the long run, our bodies will inevitably waste away and die. In the short run, however, we can try to take care of ourselves and, when danger threatens, we can turn to a doctor for help.

Modern medicine has many ingenious ways of relieving our pains, helping us to cope with our disabilities and, on occasion, miraculously saving our lives.

But medical care can cost a tremendous amount of money. Too many of us know families ruined by an expensive illness, all income and savings consumed.

AN EXPENSIVE NECESSITY

The power and the cost of medicine have led, in the past decade, to an increasing discussion of a "right to health care."

One hundred years ago, the notion of such a right would have made little sense because medicine could do very little about sickness and disease.

But today, good medical care can save lives, and that care thus becomes a necessity. An expensive necessity.

The idea of a "right to health care" stems from a simple perception: necessary medical care should not be an item to be bought and sold on the open market, with the best care going only to those who can pay for it.

Good health care is a "right," many would argue, because it can make the difference between life and death.

If we agree that there is a basic right to life—the most fundamental of all rights—then we must also recognize that good health is a necessary condition for achieving that right.

Moreover, it is contended, it is unfair and inequitable that in our affluent country 20 percent of our fellow citizens receive poor medical care, and middle-class families can be ruined by an expensive illness.

Those are strong arguments. In recent years, even groups that in the 1940s and 1950s feared "socialized medicine" are prepared to agree that we need greater equity in the delivery of health care.

Yet, is the language of "rights" the best way of approaching the need for that equity?

DEFINING THE RIGHT

What does a "right to health care" mean? There are many possible answers. It could mean that all would have a right of equal access to AVAILABLE medical care, regardless of ability to pay.

Unfortunately, many areas of the country, and parts of some large cities, have very poor services and facilities. Thus "equal access" would not necessarily mean equal medical care.

It could also mean that all people have a right to the best medical care. But that principle would mean that a very elderly person, with only months to live, would have as much right to costly open-heart surgery as an infant. Would that be fair, and could we possibly bear such costs?

Or the "right to health care" could mean that each person was guaranteed some minimal necessary level of health care. But what would that level be?

Some people need only an occasional shot of penicillin to live; others may need a lifetime of complex treatment. We might well guarantee care to the former, but a guarantee to the latter could mean open-ended commitment to astronomical costs.

There is another problem in trying to determine what a necessary minimal level of health care might be. As medicine has expanded its scope to include mental health as well as physical health, the distinction between what people NEED for good health and what they DESIRE has become badly blurred.

People do not die from neurotic fears or from psychological depression. However, they can feel just as miserable as someone with a broken leg, and they can be even more crippled in their ability to lead a normal life.

But can we say such people NEED medical care, and that they have a right to that care?

Perhaps so, with serious emotional disorders—I am certainly prepared to say that. But where do we draw the line?

More life in our hectic society can induce anxiety or depression and can lead us to seek a physician or psychiatrist for relief. Do we want to say that either is a right as well?

HEALTH VS. OTHER RIGHTS

We thus run into many problems trying to define a "right to health care."

We run into still more when we try to relate that right to other claimed rights, for instance, the "right" to housing, higher education, nutrition, transportation, cheap energy and fuel, and so on.

It is hard to imagine that we have the resources to fulfill those rights while also guaranteeing a "right to health care."

Perhaps, however, we could simply declare that the right to health care is more important than all the rest. But bad housing and bad nutrition can cause bad health.

To promise health care to those who might not get sick in the first place—if they could only live more decently—would make little sense.

And while it might seem that people need decent medical care more than they need a college education, there is a hitch there also: The more education one has had, the better one's health is likely to be, because more education usually means more income, and more income is closely associated with better health.

A LIMITED RIGHT

Let us now pose out the various problems with the idea of a "right to health care" as a way of dismissing it.

Instead, it should be noted that it is a difficult and complex idea, not easy to fulfill.

Even if we accept the idea of such a right, it will inevitably have to be a limited right. There is no way the government could afford to pay for all of the health benefits that people might both need and desire.

Decisions will have to be made about which groups in our society will have a right to what.

Should comparatively more of our resources go to the young rather than the elderly?

To those faced with imminent death and in need of acute care, or to those whose lives are being ruined by a chronic, crippling illness?

To research to cure disease, or to better care with available treatment?

Not one of those questions can easily be answered in the name of "rights." But not one of them can be avoided.

Nor will the problem of health care become easier as time goes on. The problems we now face—mainly those of chronic disease—will be costly to treat, resistant to quick cures, and increasingly prevalent as the proportion of the elderly in our society increases.

Whether one thinks it helpful to speak of rights or not, it is clear that we can more equitably develop and deliver health care than we do not.

And it is no less clear that it is wrong that many hundreds of thousands in our society must live with constant worry—the worry that while medicine may save their physical life, it may do so by destroying their economic life. Death and illness are bad enough.

Next: Dr. Edward F. X. Hughes, director of Northwestern University's Center for Health Services and Policy Research, discusses why medical care costs so much.

He was previously a staff associate of the Population Council and executive director of "Commonweal" magazine, a recipient of the Thomas More Medal for "Abortion: Law, Choice and Morality," he has written and edited many other books and articles, including "The Tyranny of Survival," "Ethics and Population Limitation" and "Ethics Teaching in Higher Education."

Emergency medical technician seminar

An emergency technician seminar to meet the continuing education requirements for EMT certified personnel will be held Sunday, March 8, beginning at 8 a.m. in the auditorium of Memorial Hospital, Belleville. The seminar will provide eight hours of recertification credit, and $12.50 will cover the cost of registration, lunch and refreshments.

EMT personnel may register by calling 235-2700, extension 263, between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. or they may register in person with the Allied Health secretary in Room 2405 on the main Belleville Area College campus.

The seminar, "Caring, Helping and Sharing," will include sessions on primary and secondary survey; airway management and the EMT's role with IV's and EOA's; splinting pointers and tips; "how to" for dressing; CPR in transit; a skills station; and "when you need to" call the paramedics.

'White lies' can cause problems

By CATHERINE MAUCK
County Homemaking Adviser

Most parents want their children to be truthful, and often insist that "honesty is the best policy."

Parents may be quite surprised to learn how often they themselves lie to their children—and that such lies can create serious problems.

Perhaps the word "lie" is a bit strong for the statements parents make to young children. But if parents say something is true when they know it isn't that is lying.

There are various types of lies—beyond the Tooth Fairy and Easter Bunny categories—that parents tell children.

There are fanciful lies, for example, of you eat seeds, a tree will grow in your stomach. Here, adults may take pleasure in their own creativity, but at the expense of the child's psyche.

When children believe parents to be all-knowing, such a lie can be a source of intense anxiety in the child.

"If you take the old blanket along, everyone will say you're a baby!" This is an example of a teasing lie.

Children who are told such lies may be afraid to ask for reassurance, partly because they fear their worst suspicions will be confirmed, and partly because they fear being ridiculed. Adults often forget the anguish that can be caused by what they think is casual teasing.

The threatening lie takes the form of an ultimatum: "If you don't come right now, I'll leave without you." Some children immediately recognize this as an idle threat, and for them it is ineffectual.

Other children, however, genuinely fear abandonment. For them, the threat may be effective but the emotional costs can be severe.

The Santa lie can become a means of bribery or manipulation: "If you behave, Santa will bring you a new bicycle."

Overall, bribery lies do not work very well. The required behavior may not be clearly defined—the child will say "I behaved!" the adult, "You didn't!"

If the promise isn't fulfilled, the child feels betrayed. Either say, the parent may wind up losing respect as well as credibility. It's a no-win situation.

"It's better for parents to be direct about the behavior desired."

Statements such as, "I expect you to sit still in church, even though I know it's very hard to do that," if issued firmly and warmly and used judiciously, can bring results without messy complications.

As for white lies, they may at times be necessary or desirable to protect a child's ego or even his or her life.

For example, an injured child may temporarily need false reassurance so that fear and panic don't increase the seriousness of the condition. And sometimes, being kind must take precedence over being honest—"Your painting is just beautiful!"

However, children shouldn't be constantly flattered with lies.

This can lead to a dependency on praise and a reduced ability to cope with criticism.

Neither individual development nor society is well served by exaggerated praise-seeking and the white lies involved.

Adults often underestimate a child's capacity to accept realistic and truthful responses from adults.

By being honest with children, parents not only avoid the possible harm that lies can do; they also, by example, teach children the value of honesty.

Metaphysicist says color auras reveal personality

"I can accomplish whatever I want to accomplish and this is a feeling that everyone should have," Bob Masters stated confidently.

"People today are searching for fulfillment and Astro-Soul helps one get more out of life through a sense of confidence and enthusiasm, with inner dimensions," he said.

Masters, an Astro-Soul psychic, will deliver a lecture, titled "Reincarnation: A Way of Life," at 7 p.m. Saturday, March 7, at the Granite City Travelodge, 1200 Nineteenth St.

The public is invited to attend. A $3 admission fee will be asked.

Astro-Soul is a spiritual movement founded in 1968 by Francisco Coll of Puerto Rico and headquartered in Washington, D.C.

People trained through Astro-Soul are in 20 countries and its adherents now number several thousand, he said.

"Its principles are based on Christianity and the movement supports the belief that the answers to everything are found within, as God is within," Masters said.

The California psychic continued, "Astro-Soul centers around the philosophy of reincarnation."

"Basically that Planet Earth is a school, one of many schools in the universe and that a soul can return back to Earth over and over again."

"Some souls are on Earth for the first time while others have returned many times," he stated.

"Most people have experienced this return through 'deja vu,' a sense of closeness to certain people, or an unexplained feeling that one has been to a given place or lived a specific experience before."

"We believe that you reincarnate until you learn all things."

"There is no death. This occurrence should be regarded as similar to the graduation from one level of consciousness to another."

"There are so many different levels of consciousness and we are all working with different souls. The more one shares with others, the faster he will grow."

"Everyone is a superhero and everyone is a genius in his feelings within and this is true," Masters said, adding, "I feel I can leap tall buildings."

"Some people live in the future and some in the past when it is important that one needs to live today...to get the most out of life," he stressed.

Masters contends that he and others trained by Astro-Soul can see colored auras that surround each person. "What I see is a color emanating from a person's spiritual energy. The color of the aura reveals the individual's personality."

Masters, 26, who was born in Sacramento, Calif., has been aware of his own psychic abilities, to some degree, since childhood and has had a number of extraordinary experiences.

He became an Astro-Soul convert after attending a lecture in Palm Springs, Calif., in 1972.

More earlier than that, however, he had begun a serious study of ESP, projections and related data after several personal experiences.

Astro-Soul advocates also believe the soul leaves the body during sleep to travel into the universe, in a sense to "recharge."

Masters has taken several classes with his soul psychics as astral projection.

On his current lecture tour through Illinois and Indiana, Masters will talk about this aspect of the Astro-Soul movement, among others.

He said his lectures mostly attract individuals who are "frequently professional in some area, but not always."

$6,631 for vandalism at school

A payment of $6,631 has been received from the INA Insurance Co. on damage from vandalism occurring Oct. 6 at Granite City High School North. It was announced at a School Board meeting Tuesday night.

Damage totaled $11,631, and a $5,000 deductible amount was subtracted from that figure. A police investigation is continuing in an effort to locate the vandals.

The efforts of police, sheriff deputies and school personnel in solving a Feb. 19 burglary at the building were praised at the board meeting by Supt. B. J. Davis.

Fixtures worth about $2,000 were stolen from the partly-completed building at 2138 Hamilton Drive. The house is being constructed as part of students' instruction and eventually will be sold, with proceeds then financing work on another home.

Taken were a combination microwave oven unit, an air-conditioning condenser and an "A" coil for the house under construction, and a replacement condensing unit for a previous building tract project.

Three students and a man were implicated in the burglary.

Among those praised for their response to the incident were Thomas Holloway, industrial arts, vocational and career education director, and Victor Buehler, GCHS North assistant principal.

The board decided to purchase athletic field bleachers for the Schram High baseball and soccer complex from Mike Schram and Associates at a cost of $3,731.

There will be ten five-row sections, each 15 feet long and seating 50 people. The addition will increase the stadium capacity to 950 spectators.

Trampolines and mini-trampolines presently in storage will be sold. They are no longer used in physical education classes because of the danger of injury and the difficulty in obtaining student insurance coverage for trampolines.

The Proband School PTA will donate to that grade school two water coolers, two photographic flash units, a portable speaking horn, a microwave oven, library books, an electric typewriter, a camera, and instructional supplies.

Masters holds the title of professor at the Americana Leadership College, a para-psychology institute in Washington, D.C.

In addition to lecturing, he also is available for private level spiritual counseling.

Astro-Soul national headquarters in Washington, D.C., has a toll-free telephone number—1-800-424-3670—which may be utilized by persons seeking further information or those interested may write to Masters at P.O. Box 4897, Washington, D.C. 20008.

On his current lecture tour through Illinois and Indiana, Masters will talk about this aspect of the Astro-Soul movement, among others.

He said his lectures mostly attract individuals who are "frequently professional in some area, but not always."

inquest into death in jail

An inquest is to be held next week into the cause of death of Brian K. Townzen, 20, Edwardsville, a former local resident, who stopped breathing in a Granite City Police jail cell Feb. 5 and could not be revived.

The preliminary autopsy report showed a high level of alcohol in Mr. Townzen's blood and the preliminary cause of death is believed to have been from aspiration of gastro (stomach) contents into his lungs, which blocked his breathing, according to Madison County Deputy Coroner Dick Mizell.

Mizell said laboratory tests on Mr. Townzen's blood showed the alcohol level was measured .069, or nearly seven times the legally intoxicated level of .010.

Granite City Police found Mr. Townzen unconscious near Edwardsville Road and 20th Street early Feb. 5 and were unable to wake him, so they allowed him to sleep in a jail cell from 12:30 to 3:57 a.m., checking him every half hour.

When it was discovered he was no longer breathing, he was rushed to St. Elizabeth Medical Center where doctors tried to revive him before declaring him dead at 4:26 a.m.

The death could have implications for future policies of area police departments in the handling of prisoners suspected of being drunk.

Both men must appear by March 25.

Madison to issue $4 million in industrial revenue bonds

By LISA LUTZ for the Press-Record

The Madison City Council agreed last night to issue $4 million in industrial revenue bonds to help Steelcase Inc. expand its operations in the Maers Industrial Park.

The expansion will take place on a 40,000-square-foot lot in the park, it was announced. "We all feel elated about this," said Mayor Mike Sasyk. "The city should be proud that we have a firm like this which has confidence in us," he added.

Sasyk also said the expansion will bring more jobs to the area. "We are confident that this investment in the city is a good one," he said.

The official action taken last night was an agreement to sign a letter of intent to the state and federal governments to contract has been signed.

In other business, City Comptroller Albert Hudzik told the council that the city had applied for a grant from the Federal Aid to Urban Systems (FAUS) to pay from 70 to 75 percent of the cost of Route 3, which has been and now must be maintained by the municipalities, comes into Venice from Brooklyn on Broadway through Venice and north on Madison Avenue through Madison. It then enters Granite City and utilizes Madison Avenue, 20th Street and Missouri Avenue until it reaches the new Route 3 (formerly Route 151).

The total cost of resurfacing the route is estimated at $1,000,000 for full depth blacktopping through Venice, Madison and Granite City.

Invited to speak are the three candidates for mayor, Warren Decatur, Daniel Partney and incumbent Paul Schuler, and the candidates for township supervisor, incumbent Nelson Hagnauer and Tom Nesbit.

Aldermen invited are Ward Five, incumbent Lloyd Bailey and Jack Varadani; Ward Six, Walter Milton, Woodrow Hood and Steve Saltich; and Ward Seven, incumbent Paul Ray Bowler and Michael Werth.

Also invited are four candidates unable to attend the last meeting, which was held during a cold winter storm. They are William D. Dallas Jr. and Leroy Mangiaracino of the First Ward and Glen Sprank and John Zikovich of the Fourth Ward.

According to President Paul Fisk, no debating will be allowed. Candidates will be given time to review their backgrounds, qualifications and plans and a question and answer session will follow all the speeches.

Sharon Poyner, 3901 Village Lane, had halted her eastbound auto due to cars ahead of her stopping. When Darren Bone, 2521 Ivy Lane, also halted, the front of the Stevenson car hit her rear, his auto, knocking it against the Poyner car.

News notes
The chief utility engineer of the Governor's Consumer Affairs Office, charged Monday that Illinois Power Co. is painting a rosy financial picture for investors than for the Illinois Commerce Commission, from which it is seeking a $115 million electric rate hike. A Champaign County grand jury ruled Monday that IP can use power plant construction costs in computing rates.

Governor James R. Thompson in his annual budget message Monday proposed a 2 percent increase to $14.9 billion, enabling spending to rise 5.5 percent. The budget would continue in 1981-82 a current level of $403 million in sales tax relief and $123 million in other tax relief.

The Central Illinois Consumer Energy Group announced Tuesday the complete deregulation of the natural gas industry would add another $1,000 to $1,600 to a customer's annual yearly gas bill of $1,200. An Illinois Power Co. spokesman said the average Illinois residential bill of $465 and that it would rise only $34 under "minimal" deregulation.

Arnold Franke, Richard Madison, Charles Moorhead and Paul Stalter are finalists for the position of SIUE director of supporting services.

Former Belleville Area College president William Keel is suing the college district for $35,000 in leave, alleging a breach of contract.

Undergraduate tuition at St. Louis University will rise 14 percent, from $1,850 to $2,110, this fall.

City, or $980,000 if the sides are tapered so they are not as thick as the center.

The portion for Granite City would be $600,000 for full-depth blacktopping or $570,000 with tapered sides. Granite also plans to apply for grants to help pay for the work, unless the Illinois Department of Transportation can be persuaded that it is responsible for repairing the roadway before the cities will accept full maintenance on it.

Hudzik told the Madison Council last night that the 25 to 30 percent local share of the resurfacing cost in Madison could be paid from the city's motor fuel tax fund.

He also said that FAUS officials commented they have never received such good cooperation from three separate municipalities on one project.

Cable television for Madison came one step closer to reality as the council accepted the low bid from Scientific Atlanta for materials for the cable system. The contract awarded totals $26,246.

A motion to demolish a piece of property in the 900 block of Jackson Street was made by Alderman Don Garrett, who said the property "is an eyesore and the cause of numerous problems."

"I move that we make an emergency case out of this and tear the property down. We have been dragging this out for three or four years now," Garrett added.

Mayor Sasyk responded, "We have to get the heirs to sign the papers. You can't just go around tearing down other people's property."

Assistant Building Inspector Curtis King told the council that he would try to have the heirs to sign the demolition papers before the council's next meeting.

Garrett expressed dissatisfaction that the property was not condemned sooner. "I would think that the people who are salaried would see to this kind of thing," Garrett said, and Sasyk reminded him that part of Garrett's job as an alderman is to see that city employees do their jobs.

A motion approving a request from the NAACP (National Association for the Advancement of Colored People) for a parade permit was approved. The parade is to be held at noon April 10 in honor of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Mayor Sasyk expressed his support for the Madison High School basketball team, which will play tomorrow night in Vandalia for the sectional championship. "Their outstanding job merits everyone's support. If you feel like it, let's go to the place to do it," Sasyk told the council.

On March 18 the township will sponsor a movie for the senior citizens. "Coastline's Daughter" will be shown at 6:30 p.m. The feature-length film stars Sissy Spacek portraying country-western singer Loretta Lynn.

Township buses will be available for transportation to and from the hall for the movie-goer's convenience. Those needing a ride should contact the township office by noon on the day of the showing to make arrangements.

13% tuition hike expected at SIU

The prospect of a $5.3 million cut in next year's budget may force a maximum 13 percent tuition increase for the Southern Illinois University system, SIU Chancellor Kenneth A. Shaw said Thursday.

In a budget-review memo to the University trustees, Shaw said he will ask them at a March 12 meeting to give him authority to ask for the 13 percent maximum if the state legislature approves higher education funding bills based on the level sought by Gov. James Thompson.

"The Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) has recommended a total operating budget of $161.3 million for the SIU system during the fiscal year that starts July 1, included in that is a proposed 10 percent tuition hike.

Thompson's recommendation is $156 million, reflecting his bottom line 5.8 percent budget increase level statewide for higher education.

Shaw said the extra three percent tuition hike would yield $623,000 at SIU's Carbondale and Edwardsville campuses, still leaving a $5.3 million shortfall between the IBHE's original budget proposal and the governor's recommendation.

Shaw said if final appropriations match the governor's recommended level, it will mean: —Most of the new expanded academic program support slated for next year at both campuses ($1.1 million) will be dropped; —Payroll economies totaling $1.9 million; —The SIU system will have to improve power and lighting efficiency to make up for a three percent ($23,000) cut in funding to meet utilities cost increases; —Additional economies totaling $1.1 million will have to be realized to deal with the governor's recommended slash in money the IBHE had recommended (an eight percent budget increase) for general price rises. Shaw said if inflation is more than eight percent next year, spending for non-personnel items will have to be cut even more sharply.

The IBHE originally had recommended 10 percent salary increases for next year, nine percent of that for general raises and the rest to help university employees catch up with their equals in other state agencies. The raises would be based on only 90 percent of existing salary bases; however, meaning schools would have to absorb the difference by reallocating money internally or not replacing some positions when they become vacant.

Shaw said the IBHE now—based on the Thompson reductions—figures on eight percent general raises July 1, 1982. The IBHE also has decreed an additional one percent cut in base payrolls.

The overall 5.8 percent tax-funded increase for higher education that Thompson has recommended—in contrast to five percent boosts for other state-supported activities —"has shown his knowledge of our problems and his desire to meet his commitments," Shaw said. "For this special attention, we must be appreciative. On the other hand, we cannot escape the fact that the funds recommended... fall far short of meeting our needs."

SIU vice-chancellor James M. Brown said the SIU at Carbondale and SIU at Edwardsville presidents are to spell out their belt-tightening plans at the March 12 board of trustees meeting in Carbondale.

Family health, medical record

By CATHERINE MAUCK
County Homemaking Adviser

Has anyone in your family ever had diabetes? Do you know which vaccinations your children have received and when? Have you ever had the mumps?

If you're unsure of the answers to any of the above questions, the new "Family Health and Medical Record" booklet, prepared by Larry O'Reilly, University of Illinois Extension health education specialist, can help you keep better track of health information about yourself and your family.

The booklet is available for 35 cents from the Madison County Extension office, Box 427, Edwardsville, or by calling 656-8400.

If a family relies on only one doctor and one dentist, its health records would probably be fairly easily accessible. However, many families use more than one doctor.

For example, the children often see a pediatrician; the mother, a gynecologist; and the father, a general practitioner and perhaps some other specialist.

And different family members may see different dentists as well as orthodontists. In such cases, the only way for a family to maintain a single health record for all members is to do so itself.

Families who do not keep such a record may face problems if they should move because they have no organized list of information for new doctors, dentists or schools.

And in addition to the value of keeping a family health record for filling out applications for schools, jobs and insurance, such a record offers other advantages.

Your health record can spare you the expense of having copies made of past medical tests and procedures.

It also will help a new doctor develop health histories for family members, and it will provide information that may help you get faster and more accurate health care.

Such a health record also can provide a doctor with information about allergies and how recently a family member has had a tetanus shot in case of an emergency.

Family members should take the health record with them whenever they visit doctors or dentists to make sure the record is kept accurate and up to date.

The "Family Health and Medical Record" booklet available from the Madison County Extension office includes spaces for listing family health care providers and their addresses, health insurance policy data, a family health history and an immunization record.

Also included are removable wallet cards on which family members can record health information to carry with them, and spaces to record questions asked of medical personnel to which you may want to refer later.

Reiter in massive defense simulation

Air Force Senior Airman Todd E. Reiter, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Reiter of 4015 Ridge Ave., Granite City, participated in Global Shield '81, the strategic Air Command's response to a simulated attack on the United States.

He was among the more than 100,000 U.S. Air Force, Navy and Marine men and women and Canadian personnel taking part in SAC's largest, no-notice, 20-day training exercise.

During one portion of Global Shield, more than 500 B-52 and FB-111 bombers and KC-135 tankers took off from 70 different locations in the U.S. and Guam within minutes of notification.

This exercise is not related in any way to real world situations, a SAC spokesman emphasized.

Global Shield '81 was designed to test the command's capability to carry a no-notice emergency response to support U.S. policy if deterrence fails.

This exercise to a set of pre-planned events leading up to a simulated attack on the U.S.

As part of Global Shield, some SAC aircraft deployed to civilian and military airfields selected for the exercise. Additionally, B-52s and FB-111s flew low-level training routes approved by the Federal Aviation Administration to help measure the bombing, navigation and electronic counter-measure skill of air crews.

Interested persons should contact the committee members include: Robert Anderson, 876-7445; Linda Moore Aumann, 656-8013; Martha Wyle Bridges, 931-5654; Joyce Sheppard Hicks, 397-8086; Marilyn Sheppard McMillan, 931-5729; Phyllis Daugherty McMillan, 314-846-4075; or Mary Ann Neumann, 314-553-2673.

Robert Glik is named bike-a-thon chairman

Jack Buck, voice of the St. Louis Cardinals and chairman of the Gateway Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, has named Robert Glik of Glik's Department Stores as chairman of the annual Cystic Fibrosis Bike-a-Thon in Granite City.

Glik will be conducting the bike-a-thon in May to raise funds which will support research and care for children affected by cystic fibrosis.

"This event should be a real good time for all who want to participate and a great way to help individuals who have cystic fibrosis lead more normal lives," Glik said.

Cystic fibrosis is a fatal lung and digestive disease affecting one in every 1,500 babies born in the United States. With continued research a test should be discovered to determine who the carriers of the CF gene are. At this point, 50 percent have the CF patients are living to enjoy their 18th birthday and beyond, due to improved therapy.

More details concerning the annual bike-a-thon will be released at a later date, the chairman added.

Transit board seeks to change law earmarking its taxes for Bi-State

By EDGURNEY

The Madison County Mass Transit District board plans to ask the Illinois General Assembly to eliminate the Bi-State Development Agency as the provider of bus service in Madison County, it was related at a meeting of the board Monday.

A locally operated system would replace Bi-State, according to board chairman Bill Haine of Alton.

The board plans to invite area legislators to a meeting in about two weeks to discuss the proposed change. The St. Clair County Mass Transit District board is also expected to attend; it also favors getting rid of Bi-State, Haine said.

Haine said he proposed the change after realizing last week that the transit district board had little control over how Bi-State operates. The district was formed several months ago to establish a one-fourth cent sales tax to provide a local subsidy for Bi-State operations.

"You must have a consensus (from district residents) to operate," Haine said at Monday's board meeting. "We don't have it here." The district cannot continue indefinitely under the present arrangement, he said.

"If somewhere along the way we could provide a similar service at a saving to the taxpayer, that's part of our job," said transit board member Paul Schuler, Mayor of Granite City.

As Haine envisions it, the new county bus system would receive approximately $4 million in revenue, not counting fares, from Illinois that now goes to Bi-State, based in St. Louis.

He said he realized the transit board's lack of control when it met last week with Susan Young of the Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT).

She wanted an assurance that the district would provide the local subsidy before she would allow Bi-State to be given the state subsidy. Law requires that the state subsidize the district, which includes part of the county.

For now, the question will not affect the amount the transit district will pay Bi-State. This year's subsidy from the Madison County transit sales tax will total between $1.27 million and $1.46 million, it has been estimated.

In other business, Susan Schold, 35, Belleville, was hired to manage the Madison County Mass Transit District.

Her employment was approved Monday afternoon by the district board. She is also a transit planner for the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council, and will work a maximum of 20 hours per week for the transit district. According to the district's contract with East-West, it will pay $4,500 for Susan Schold's services. Federal transit planning funds will be used to pay the remainder of the cost of her transit district salary.

He would like the General Assembly to find out if a local bus system would be feasible. "All the money will be spent right here in good of Madison County," he said.

Haine said he favors regional cooperation, but he thinks Bi-State is perceived here as an agency to benefit downtown St. Louis interests. Routes are geared toward getting people downtown, he said.

New name for box board firm

The board of directors of Alton Box Board Company has adopted a resolution to amend the company's certificate of incorporation to change the name of the company to Alton Packaging Corporation.

Michael W. J. Smurfit, president and chief executive, said, "We feel the name Alton Packaging is more descriptive of the corporation's varied operations in paperboard packaging. The name Alton Box Board has served us well for more than 70 years and we feel that Alton Packaging will be representative in the growth years ahead."

Alton facilities include paperboard mills, paper reclamation, wood products and manufacturing plants producing folding cartons, corrugated shipping containers and papertube products.

During 1980, the Jefferson Smurfit Group of Dublin, Ireland, increased its ownership to 80 percent of Alton's outstanding stock, and as previously agreed, will acquire all remaining outstanding shares in the next two years.

Jefferson Smurfit is a major international packaging company with subsidiaries and associated companies operating in Ireland, the United Kingdom, United States, Nigeria and Australia. The principal businesses of the group are packaging, paper making, print, publishing, audio-visual production and distribution.

Her employment was approved Monday afternoon by the district board. She is also a transit planner for the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council, and will work a maximum of 20 hours per week for the transit district. ## Decatur claims lead in GC mayor's race

"Our polls indicate that I am leading and I want to keep it this way," Alderman Warren Decatur, a candidate for mayor of Granite City, told the gathering during a campaign fund-raiser in his honor Monday evening at Charlie's Restaurant.

"Isn't it amazing what you can do with a few dollars," he added, indicating he does not have the financial backing the other candidates for mayor have.

Decatur said he is opposed to littering the city with campaign signs, saying, "They're making it look like a jungle." He said that if he is elected, he will seek legislation banning political signs in the city. "If I am elected, there will be no more signs," Decatur said.

He told the gathering he would make only one promise—to hire qualified persons who will work hard and do quality jobs for the taxpayers.

Decatur was introduced by Glen Hollis, who withdrew from the mayor's race to give his support to Decatur. Hollis said a poll conducted by Decatur's friends showed him having more support than either Mayor Paul Schuler or candidate Daniel Partney.

A special guest at the event was Madison County State's Attorney Don Weber who said the recent losses by federal and state officials show that the people are making "a noble effort to try to take the government back."

Weber also said, "Granite City is ready for a change of leadership. It is time for citizens to take charge of the government, other than the way around."

Decatur's daughter, Wendy Decatur Kambarian, also spoke, saying many people are beginning to believe all politicians are dishonest and ineffective. "That is not true of my father," she said, calling him "trustworthy," and "a man of his word."

Future of GC stirs mayoral campaign

PAUL SCHULER

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

Granite City is dynamic, drifting or decaying, in the opinions of the three April 7 mayoral candidates—Mayor Paul Schuler, 49, Alderman Warren Decatur, 63, and County Board Member Daniel Partney, 31. Each pledges that 1981-85 will be a period of progress if he is elected.

In a repeat of their 1977 confrontation, Schuler is pointing with pride to municipal accomplishments and Partney is viewing with alarm the problems besetting the city. A new element this time is the "third man theme" sounded by Decatur. He is not entirely pleased or displeased with what has been happening but thinks he could do a better job than either of the others. Decatur chaired the Partney campaign four years ago.

Schuler, the candidate of the dominant political organization, is running as part of a team that includes four other incumbent officials, City Treasurer Neil Petrillo, Township Supervisor Nelson Hagmann, City Clerk Robert Stevens and Assessor Von Dee Cruse. The mayor serves on the National Democratic Committee.

Partney is the "outsider" in the race but also has built a city-wide organizational structure that helped him finish a strong second in his first try for the office of mayor—close enough to give him confidence to try again.

At this stage of the race, Partney may pose more of a threat to Schuler than does Decatur, who has been a big vote-getter in Ward Four but does not have as much of an organization in other wards.

However, predicting the outcome is difficult; city elections can be volatile, and at least two of the treasures are thought to be large enough to finance substantive campaigning during March.

With eight years as mayor following prior service as president of the Granite City Park Board, Schuler has a broad range of experience in public life, including holding the top leadership positions in the Bi-State Development Agency, the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission, and the East St. Louis Urbanized Area Policy Committee, which reviews Federal Aid to Urban Systems grants.

The mayor has been able to attract majority City Council backing for a wide range of projects, and the police, fire and ambulance staffs are regarded by many as functioning effectively despite severe financial constraints.

Partney stresses youthful vigor combined with business acumen, and a penchant for speaking his mind whenever he regards a proposal or action as being potentially adverse to the public interest. Often on the negative side of Madison County governmental votes, Partney has sought to play a "watchdog" role intended to encourage efficiency and economy. He promises that he would move aggressively to balance job opportunities here.

WARREN DECATUR

Council and committee duties conscientiously, and says he would push for more effective follow-through by inspection and other staffs that report to the mayor. He promises to foster greater motivation for city employees.

Partney says he could work cooperatively with the elected street superintendent for improved city services and efficiency.

The elected superintendent for years has sided politically with Partney and against Schuler, who blames the superintendent for ignoring voter, aldermanic and mayoral wishes for cleaner and safer streets.

Convinced that the street department's performance level has blighted the public's image of Granite City, the mayor has sought through other officials and employees to monitor complaints and resolve them whenever possible by means that do not utilize the street staff.

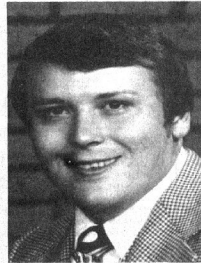

The street superintendent, who reports to no one but the electorate, contends he is willing and able to enhance the city's appearance but sometimes is thwarted by insufficient funds and lack of rapport with the council. Partney generally takes the same view—that whatever deficiencies exist reflect on the council rather than the street department.

A silent factor in the 1981 campaign, as it was in 1977, is the fact that Partney's father, the late Donald Partney Sr., served as mayor for terms that began in 1965 and 1969 and when in ill health, lost to Schuler in 1973. Some who voted for Schuler that year said they were favorable to Mayor Partney but feared that the senior alderman at that time, the late Walter Bonn, might become acting mayor.

The late mayor's sons have continued the Partney family's involvement in local political involvement, aided by the political base of Alderman Nenn's widow, Margaret, who succeeded him as a Fifth Ward alderman. The Partneys' business, the Granite Sheet Metal Co., is located in her ward.

Another silent campaign issue is speculation over whether the 1980s might bring a repeat of 1960s mayor-council clashes in which, if one faction favored a proposal, it seemed inevitable that another faction would oppose it.

Some say a renewal of "feuding, fussing and fighting" would worsen the chances of orderly, constructive activity by the municipal government. Others say it would be healthy to have greater controversy—that the city and habits need to be challenged to keep all officials and employees "on their toes." As Partney has phrased it in commenting on the County Board, "There too often is a lack of dissent on issues that could and should be questioned."

any and all attainments as unimportant or late or costly or inappropriately motivated.

In both the 1977 and 1981 campaigns, Mayor Schuler has cited long lists of services and facilities that have been added or enhanced. Partney suggested four years ago that many of these improvements actually had their roots in the pre-1973 years, that planning already had been well under way. Schuler responded that this kind of generalization is unfair and oversimplified; in any event, he added, visualizing something is not the same as making it a reality.

This year, Partney is saying that the city has not achieved its full potential, including the volume of federal grants obtained, and that the municipality has misused shared revenue by applying a large portion of it to employee salaries rather than to buildings and equipment.

Decatur agrees that "we have to break our dependence on revenue sharing for salaries. I've been a member of the finance committee for five years and we always recommend phasing this out, but each year our plans go down the drain."

"Revenue sharing will stop someday. When it does, it'll be a tremendous burden if we're still relying on it for salaries. It was meant for capital improvements. Our roads need repair, and there are lots of other places we could use it," Decatur comments.

The mayor says it is important to adequately staff and pay city departments, adding that he would be happy to divert shared revenue to additional uses when possible.

The 1973 campaign ridiculed Schuler's pharmacy as a "hole in the wall" retail enterprise, compared with the multi-county sheetmetal contracting and construction venture. Daniel Partney is saying the present mayor lacks the skill or determination to bring about a more prosperous business climate. He and his brothers have since broadened the Partney family's business base to include three Quad-City funeral homes.

The anti-Schuler group includes some skilled politicians, but the mayor himself is no amateur in the rough and tumble of politics. For example, he turned a "hole in the wall" retail enterprise, compared with the multi-county sheetmetal contracting and construction venture.

For years ago, Schuler emphasized community solidarity and happiness, as symbolized by a smiling cartoon face on campaign literature. And this year he is emphasizing his record, asserting that "you can be sure with Mayor Schuler."

The ballot will list Decatur, Schuler and Partney in that order, but few observers are sure enough of the outcome to call the order of their finish in the vote totals.

In the ballot sequence, here are summaries of the aspirants' backgrounds and platforms:

WARREN DECATUR—Would like to "change the moral tone" of the city. At 63, he has no "grand aims of power and control" but says he would devote all time toward a government "based on merit and trust."

Decatur says he has "seen things that needed to be done for 12 years, and I want to become mayor to achieve what I know needs to be done."

Past president of the Tri-City Shrine Club and the Granite City Rotary Club, a former fire and police commissioner for three years and former solicitation chairman for the Fehling Road sports complex lighting project, Decatur has served on the City Council for six years.

He says, "Young people are repulsed when someone wins by unfair play or receives a job based on politics. This breeds mistrust and negative emotions. They become disheartened when they sense that rules are not applied fairly."

"I have stood up in the Council chambers and fought against any hirings or dealings not based on merit."

"The implications of merit go far beyond getting the best man for the job. They set a tone for the entire city and for our entire society."

"This city has a $14 million budget and should be run like a large business."

Decatur would hire an administrative aide with accounting and budgeting experience, and a public works director capable of assuming responsibility for all departments and "seeing to it that the projects mandated by the council are carried out."

"The lower census means less motor fuel taxes and federal funds. It is going to take some ingenuity to provide the same services in future years. It means less people working harder, that's what we'll have to do."

The Decatur campaign headed by Glen Hollis pictures the candidate as a man of "competence and character."

A mechanical engineer, Decatur is a past president of the Illinois Chapter of the National Electrical Contractors Association.

PAUL SCHULER—Wants to continue as the city's top official for a third term, and to continue other efforts to help the community, such as through his current role as a member of the Madison County Transit District Board.

(His appointment to the transit board, which hopes to improve bus service in the county, was opposed by Partney, who said the mayor has been inattentive to some of his duties on various regional panels. The mayor says Partney has had a poor attendance record at County Board meetings.)

Schuler says his six years on the Park Board saw Wilson Park facilities expanded, including construction of the ice skating rink and recreation center; opening of Worthen Park; development of Civic Park on the site of the former post office, and purchase of West Granite playground land.

As a Sixth Ward alderman for four years, he served on the Finance, anyone ever being fired from City Hall. I have even thought about having time clocks for City Hall employees."

Citing a community development project that encountered delays, Decatur said, "So many things in this city seem to get placed on the back burner. I see apathy on the part of the city to complete anything. There are too many people with no direction."

He proposes to reduce costs and possibly payrolls, and to improve testing for fire and police hiring and promotion.

As a Sixth Ward alderman for four years, he served on the Finance, Traffic, Street Light, City Hall and other committees.

Schuler believes his first term as mayor in 1973-77 brought police reorganization that reduced crime, a new fire station and better fire protection, obtaining of $15 million in federal and state funds for local projects, fuller communication with aldermen and the public, completion of Johnson Road, start of Maryville Road paving, installation of automatic traffic signals for emergency vehicles, modernization of the animal shelter, curb and sidewalk construction in equal amounts for all seven wards, and the start of preparations for new public buildings.

Also in 1973-77, the upgrading of employee pay, a brighter and more cheerful appearance for city buildings, completion of several pocket parks, improved traffic patterns, additional street lighting, demolition of hazardous buildings, and increased cooperation by the mayor's office with aldermen, city departments and the state and federal governments.

The Army veteran, a former Retail Clerk and United Steelworker who is active in many local organizations and has served on the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council, is convinced his second term as mayor also brought many improvements.

He cites construction of the new police headquarters and civil defense facility, extensive construction work on a 19th Street overpass to connect downtown with West Granite and Illinois Route 241, additional street lighting, annual city-wide clean-up programs, construction of the new Granite City township building, establishment of a city ambulance and paramedic service, provision of $10 million in mortgage revenue bonds to provide low-interest home loans, and establishment of a library annex.

Also in 1977-81, a new fire department "snorkel" truck and rescue vehicle, summer painting of over 50 homes for senior citizens and low-income families, simultaneously providing work for young people and union members, completion of Maryville Road, $1,500,000 in other street projects, reconstruction of all major railroad crossings, cooperation in expansion of St. Elizabeth Medical Center, lowering of city health, life and major medical insurance costs, and use of township revenue funds for baseball and soccer field lights, Granite City High School North bleachers and Wilson Park playground equipment.

Mayor Schuler also cooperated with the City Council and industrial leaders in the financing of new or expanded buildings and equipment for Michigan Metals, Feralloy Corp., R & R Leasing, Battery Recyclers, Pre-Coat Metals, Granite City Steel, Nestle Corp., Prairie Farms, Air Products and American Steel Foundries.

Schuler's campaign is being led by Robert Stevens.

The mayor asserts, "One of the best guides in judging a candidate is 'Let's look at the record.'"

"I feel that my record as an active, full-time and available mayor for two full terms should be and is the basis of my candidacy for a third term."

"The improved relationship with the City Council has brought about the revitalization of our city and the completion of many projects."

"With the cooperation of the council and the city departments, we have been able to hold any increase in taxes to a small percentage of the inflation rate of the last eight years, while providing higher salaries to attract well-qualified people, and more services at little or no increase in local taxes."

DANIEL PARTNEY—Now in his seventh year on the County Board, active in many organizations and an executive with sheet metal and mortuary businesses, he is a "young man in a hurry" who also feels he has gained considerable maturity in evaluating and directing governmental performance.

Partney served in the Army in Vietnam, earning the Bronze Star medal, Vietnam Gallantry Cross with silver star, Vietnam Armed Forces Honor Medal, Vietnam service and campaign medals and National Defense Medal. He is a former Retail Clerk and has been affiliated with the Sheet Metal Workers.

He succeeded in his effort to change the County Board from a per diem (meeting) payment system to annual salaries, and has sought to spotlight procedural and policy changes that could improve county governmental services.

One of his most frequently used words is "question and answer" when discussing county or city issues. He stresses adherence to "public service" and "community wishes" rather than listening to the dictation of practicing politicians and lobbyists. He promises to always "speak up for the taxpayer."

His current campaign, which is headed by Gene Alassi, seeks to place responsibility on the mayor's shoulders for closing of the former A. O. Smith Corp. auto frame plant.

Partney tells voters that "Granite City is losing, and needs a winner." He says the city is losing taxpayers' money by spending $137,000 for convention costs in five years, by "giving up jobs and industry without a fight" and by failing to exert "strong leadership to bring about positive change."

He adds his belief that the city has been losing "250 people every year, over 2,000 full-time and part-time jobs since 1973, and thousands of dollars in valuable federal grants."

Pledging to "double the number of federal grants applied for by the city within 12 months of taking office," Partney says "Granite City is last in total dollars received by major Illinois cities outside Cook County, and also last in dollars received per person."

"Only ten grants have been applied for since 1976, a tragedy of initiative. No wonder we're so far behind. By not receiving our fair share, we are in effect paying for public projects elsewhere."

"We also need tax incentives to attract major businesses and industries, creation of more industrial parks, increasing annexations, implementing more industrial revenue bonds, and developing better management-labor relations."

"We need realistic solutions which take dedication and hard work. I intend to make them happen for the people of Granite City."

Proposals voiced four years ago included encouragement of new professional buildings, increased police manpower and training, greater citizen involvement, elimination of sewer and drainage problems, greater contact between the aged and appropriate agencies, revision of traffic capacity and safety programs, additional access roads, more adequate building inspection and maintenance, and more responsible fiscal policies. Partney contended in 1977, "The problems are many, but I plan on solving them with the public's help. This city can thrive. I plan aggressive approaches and solutions." He still feels the same way.

REHABILITATION FUNDS approved

Nelson Hagnauer, Madison County Board chairman, presenting a check for half the funds, $100,000, to Melvin Wilmmsmeyer, president of First Bank; Jack Lee, vice-president of the First National Bank in Madison receiving the other $100,000 check from Cheryl Jouett, Madison County Community Development director.

District spelling bee March 7

Plans have been completed for the 5th annual Granite City School District 9 Elementary School Spelling Bee to be held Saturday, March 7, at Coolidge Junior High School. Each elementary school has selected a winner and a runner-up (alternate) in each of the three levels of participation: primary (second and third grades), lower intermediate (fourth and fifth grades) and upper intermediate (sixth grade).

As these building winners were chosen, they were presented ribbons by their principals. These school winners will compete with each other in the district spelling bee at which the three district level winners and first runners-up will receive trophies. In addition to the trophy, each of the three district winners will receive a dictionary.

All sixth grade building winners are also eligible to compete in a metropolitan area spelling bee later this year.

The district spelling bee committee is under the chairmanship of Agnes P. Fryntko, principal of Parkview School.

Other committee members are Warren Collins, curriculum coordinator; Morris Masternan, gifted consultant; Arthur Menendez, principal at Mitchell; Estelle Mass, teacher at Frohardt; Linda McDonnell, teacher at Parkview; and Mary Lou Schaefer, teacher at Southview.

North High; Carol Hornback, counselor at Coolidge; John Muller, counselor at Grigsby and Jerry Rhodes, department head at North High.

Check for water lines before digging sewers

Nameoki, Chouteau and Venice residents planning to put in their own home sewer lines should find out if there are water lines in the way, since the homeowners will be responsible for any repairs necessitated by their digging in the water easements.

The Mitchell Public Water District issued a statement Friday urging anyone planning to put in a new home sewer line or contracting to have a line put in to first check at the district's office, 745 E. Chain of Rocks Road, Mitchell, to determine where the district's water lines are before digging.

The precaution is being issued, "because of the real possibility that this construction will break the lines of the water district," according to the statement.

"The district will be happy to spot the existing water lines. The simple precaution of planning the installation of the sewer line in cooperation with the employees of the Mitchell Public Water District will save considerable time and expense to the property owners in the Mitchell area," the statement continues.

"Every effort will be made to furnish information and assistance to the users of the water district. Failure to take advantage of this service may result in serious consequences for the property owner," it concludes. The telephone number for the water company office is 931-0184 for those requiring additional information.

Council to meet in town hall to aid handicapped

The Granite City Council will hold its first meeting in the Granite City Township Hall tomorrow night so handicapped residents will be able to attend a council session.

Two weeks ago, the council voted to hold its next town hall meeting in the township hall, 21st Street and Delmar Avenue, which is accessible to the handicapped, where the regular city council meetings are held on the top floor of the city hall building, which has no ramp.

The decision to hold the meeting in the town hall was made at the request of several wheelchair-bound residents who objected to being unable to attend city council sessions.

Alderman Lloyd Bailey of the Fifth

Ward got permission from Granite City Township Supervisor Nelson Hagnauer to use the township building for tomorrow night's meeting and made a motion on the council floor Feb. 17 to hold the March 2 meeting at the township hall. The aldermen concurred unanimously.

The council will convene as the township's board of trustees at 8 p.m. tomorrow and the city council meeting will immediately follow. Since the township and city boundaries are identical, the aldermen also serve as the township's trustees.

No decision has been reached on whether the council will hold additional meetings in the town hall after tomorrow night.

Absentee ballots offered March 16

Chouteau Township Clerk Patricia Polley has announced that her office will begin accepting applications for absentee ballots Monday, March 16.

Persons who wish to vote in the April 7 combined city-township-park election, but who will not be able to go to the polls that day, may apply for an absentee ballot at the township hall, 697A Northview, (behind the Midwest Motel). The office will be open weekdays from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p.m., Mrs. Polley said.

POWER CO. DIVIDEND

The action was taken last week by the firm's board, which declared a dividend of 56 1/2 cents per share on the common stock of the company. This and dividends on cumulative preferred stock will be payable May 1 to stockholders of record on April 10.

Henry D. Karandjeff—courage of his convictions

Illinois Banker magazine—Seventy-four years ago a young man of 13 emigrated to the United States from Smardres, Macedonia, a country which is now part of Greece.

He settled in an industrial town in central Illinois along the Mississippi River which was populated with people of various nationalities due to the amount of industry in the area.

The boy decided that his fortune might be made in the railroad industry, so he journeyed north.

He took a job in a lumber yard while waiting to hear from the railroad. But eventually he returned home and was faced with the real decision of choosing a profession.

"As a youngster, my father had a shoe factory. In fact, once he let me 'build a shoe from scratch,' said the man. His eyes sparkled as he remembered.

"He gave me three choices. I could be either a minister, a doctor or a banker, so naturally, I chose banker."

"I put on my new blue serge suit and went for an interview at a local bank which had just opened Dec. 10, 1910."

"I was hired on Aug. 3, 1911, to replace a stenographer and a janitor and I agreed to start for $30 per month. After 15 days, my pay increased to $35."

Today, this mild mannered gentleman is chairman and president of his own bank—American Heritage Bank of Granite City, which opened on March 19, 1959. The newspaper ad announcing the opening hangs framed in the bank's lobby.

"I'm the honorary chairman of the Granite City Trust and Savings Bank, where I started my career. Now, I take great pleasure in seeing my son Ernest and grandson Ernest Jr. run that bank," said Henry D. Karandjeff with pride.

The younger Karandjeff took up where the elder left off.

Five years after Henry joined Granite City Trust and Savings, he was promoted to assistant cashier. He was made trust officer in 1925 and executive vice-president and cashier in 1933, becoming president in 1936.

Henry's office is located in a corner of the main floor of the bank to the left of the teller area and is separated from the main lobby by an accordion partition which is kept open.

On a paperweight on Henry's desk is a quote from Charles Evans Hughes: "You have to have courage without pugnacity, convictions without bigotry, and charity without condescension."

His desk faces a wall covered with framed certificates, photographs and awards he has accumulated in his long life of service to his community and the banking industry.

One large framed certificate recognizes Henry as the oldest continuing county chairman of the U.S. Savings Board division in the country, having begun on Pearl Harbor Day, Dec. 7, 1941.

He is the recipient of the Department of the Treasury Award for 30 years' patriotic service in the U.S. Savings Bond program from 1941-1971.

Henry was present at the signing of the "new" Illinois Banking Act in 1955.

In 1954, Henry was elected president of the Illinois Bankers Association. He had been active in association work for 20 years prior to his election as president.

He served as president of group 9 and the Madison County Federation and chairman of both the committee on education and public relations and the committee on declaration of policy.

He also served on the committees on "bank management and your Illinois Banks," was involved with the Illinois Bankers School and has been a member of the committee on legislation.

When Henry first became involved with the IBA, there were only federations and no banks instrumental in planning the group structure.

"Because some counties were so small, one county federation would merge with another. We thought we could add better programs at the regional level because more bankers from different areas could come together and share ideas."

"We saw the function of the groups to be a combination of the professional and the social, because many directors and employees of banks need a day of levity and fun," he said.

Henry is an ardent community banker and he is glad to see the IBA working to preserve the unit banking system in Illinois. He feels that education is also an important function of the IBA.

"We should offer as much education and information to bankers as possible to help make them better bankers, so they can help their communities in every way possible."

"A person in a community, using the wealth within that community, can do much more to serve the community because that person knows the people."

"It's a privilege to identify yourself with your community."

"There are certain responsibilities that come with handling people's financial affairs. Bankers have something to give."

"They are community leaders and today's bankers owe it to those bankers who preceded us to maintain our responsibility to our community."

Involvement in community affairs has always been important to the Karandjeff family.

Henry's grandson, Ernest Jr. who was recently elected president of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, represents the third generation of Karandjeffs to serve as Chamber president.

Henry's community involvement has not been limited to the Chamber.

He has served as president of the local United Fund, the Planning Commission, the Optimist Club, YMCA, Mental Health Society and Masonic Temple Association.

He was active for many years and was recognized for his participation in a program for the needy by the Salvation Army.

Many awards and certificates of recognition hang on Henry's wall in connection with his years of service to the local Boy Scout program, and he was instrumental in establishing a camp in Missouri through his negotiations with local philanthropists.

Church activities have also played an important part in Henry's active life. He has been a Sunday school teacher and was the fourth original member of the local First United Presbyterian Church.

A few years ago, Henry was made moderator of the Presbytery, an association of churches in the Granite City area. The moderator functions as a kind of president of that association.

Among other awards, Henry was honored by the State of Illinois in connection with one of his favorite

Poster contest in clean-up drive

The Community Pride Committee of the Tri-City Area Chamber of Commerce will sponsor an annual clean-up campaign to begin Saturday, April 25, with a kickoff by Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts followed by clean-up activities from Monday, April 27 to Friday, May 1.

In connection with the campaign letters have been sent to area schools asking that students in the 6 to 12 age group participate in a poster contest about the annual spring event.

Posters should be done on lightweight poster board no larger than 24 inches by 30 inches. They should be hand-drawn and hand-colored or painted, according to the committee.

Entrants may make as many posters as they like. Name of the student, address, phone number and grade in school should be put on the back of each entry submitted.

False rumors circulated on voter cards

Contrary to information being circulated concerning voter registration cards in the Venice area, voters must produce, upon demand by an election judge at the polls, their voters' card, but the right portion of the double card need not be attached.

"Only the portion of the card which shows the voter's name, address and city precinct number is required to be produced for the election judges," according to the office of Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowles.

The right portion of the double card indicates which ballots the voter is entitled to cast and is designed to be folded behind the left portion of the registration card for the voter's and election judge's reference.

"It does not need to be attached or produced at the polls for the voter to be allowed to exercise his right to vote," the spokesman stressed.

Madison roars to Regional crown

By TOM SCHOCKER
of the Press Record
COLUMBIA — It may not have been a first, but it was a rarity. As the final seconds ticked off the clock at the Columbia Regional here Friday, Madison's Morris Hughes smiled. He raised his fist in the air and cracked a grin.

The cool, unemotional Trojan had every right to be happy. To go along with Hughes' impressive 29 point performance went a 70-62 Madison victory over the Lovejoy Wildcats, to capture the regional championship.

Moving a step closer to Champaign and the Class A State Finals, Madison (24-2) will play Tuesday at the Vandalia Sectional against the host team. Game time is set for 7:30 p.m. The winner of that game will play next Friday at 7:30 for the Sectional championship against the winner of Wednesday's Bunker Hill-Westcliff (Trenton) semifinal game. The sectional champion will then travel to Eastern Illinois University in Charleston to face the winner of the Bridgeport-Red Hill Sectional most likely two-time Class A state champ Lawrenceville.

These teams will have to be wary of the up and coming Trojans. They knocked Lovejoy right off of its feet. "The talk was that we might lose the game," said Madison head coach Larry Graham. "We haven't played that well in the last three ball games and some people thought we would lose tonight." But, the Trojans have been there before and so has Morris Hughes. When Madison realized it had put the game out of reach, Hughes provided the strength. "I'll take Hughes over any other ball player when it comes to games like this," said Graham.

Lovejoy had a good thing going. Throwing a zone defense on the Trojans, Lovejoy prevented any inside artillery. However, Madison doesn't have to score from the inside to be effective.

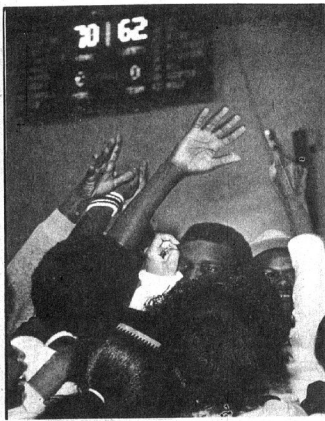

With the score having knotted up five times in the first quarter and a half, the Trojans seemed to be surviving Lovejoy's defensive position. When they got their bearings straight, they unleashed Charles Claggett.

The 6-1 senior found his range and drilled in five shots without a miss in the second quarter. He was also two-for-two in the first period. The Wildcats were still in the game, though. But, Hughes' jumper with just seconds left gave Madison a six point half time lead and something for Lovejoy to think about in the second half.

When Claggett started hitting from the outside, we had to adjust to it," said Wildcat head coach Clinton Harris. "As soon as we did, Hughes began to score from the inside."

When the pressure is on, Morris Hughes is at his best. It didn't take Lovejoy long to find it out. Madison went on a spree and hit for six unanswered points in the third period. Hughes scored them all.

Even when Pat Hatter drilled a pass to Hughes and he converted it, while drawing a foul, Hughes still remained in control and kept his straight poker-face. He went on to score 11 points in the quarter and eight more in the final period. Hitting nine-for-nine from the free throw line, Hughes' awesome display was capped off with 12 rebounds. Claggett finished the game with 20 points, while Hatter chipped in 14. But, Lovejoy had its own scoring threat. Unfortunately it was only one player.

Gerald Stevenson, a 6-7 senior transfer from Assumption, virtually became Lovejoy's scoring machine. Whenever it needed the points, Stevenson was there to put them in.

He accounted for 22 of the Wildcats 29 first half points. "Stevenson just went the boards hard," said Harris. "(James) Chapman had been our leading scorer until Stevenson came."

Stevenson's hard-nose play earned him a game high 34 points and 15 rebounds. The other giant on the Lovejoy squad, 6-9 sophomore Barry Sumpter, added 11 points and ten rebounds. The Wildcats really couldn't make good use of their height advantage, though. They did manage to out-rebound Madison 43-34.

It takes more than rebounding to beat the Trojans. It takes something Madison was well equipped with experience. "Tournament experience was the big key," said Graham. "It's hard to play when you're behind. They (Lovejoy) have a good ball club. But, we put the pressure on the them and caused the big turnovers." Stevenson was the only Wildcat who had ever played in a regional game before. But, he couldn't do it all. When it came down to final minutes, Lovejoy's lack of experience under pressure showed.

The Wildcats made one final run at Madison late in the game. Lovejoy shaved off a nine point deficit down to three, 61-58, with just over three minutes to play. But, a pair of free throws by Hatter, a couple of Lovejoy turnovers and a fast break lay-up from Claggett sealed the Trojan win.

North girls trounced

GRANITE CITY — It was the third game in four days for the Granite City North girls basketball team. It was the second game against a ranked team in less than a week. It was just something the young Steeler squad couldn't handle.

North dropped its fifteenth game in 17 tries here Thursday. The latest culprit was the Belleville West Maroons, who had little trouble in posting a 58-17 victory over the Steelers.

North's Whitaker looks for some answers

By PETE HAYES
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

CHAMPAIGN — The question circulating among the Metro-East fans at the State Wrestling Tournament Saturday night in Champaign's Assembly Hall was, "What happened to Granite City North?"

North's Steelers, who finished the season with only one loss (to cross-town rival Granite South) sent five wrestlers into the Class AA Finals. But by early Saturday afternoon, none of them were in sight. They had all been eliminated.

Nobody was more surprised at the chain of events than North head coach Walt Whitaker. Going into the tournament, he felt at least two of his wrestlers had shots at placing in the top six in their weight classes and bringing home a medal while racking up some team points for the Steelers. But they

"Our two big horses were (Gerald) Miller and (Mike) Robinson," said Whitaker. "I thought they'd be able to place and maybe get us some points. But Gerry ran into some bad luck and didn't get to wrestle back."

Miller, a 112-pound senior, was making his third State Final appearance. But he was ambushed in the first round by Steve DuVall, of Batavia 18-8. DuVall then lost to eventual champion Todd Sterr of Joliet West in the quarterfinals, thus ending Miller's hopes and his prep career on the first day of competition.

Miller appeared to have things well in hand against Reed eventually lost to South's Greg Garland in the fifth place bout (see related story).

North's other two wrestlers didn't fare that

Steeler coach is disappointed well. Glen Thompson was pinned in the 132 pound preliminaries by Bruce Baer of Proviso East in 5:44. Scott Corey at 155 pounds, won a referee's decision in the prelims over Ken Knapczyk of New Lenexa-Lincoln Way after the two had tied 3-3 in overtime. But in the first round, Corey was manhandled by Mike Perkins of Proviso East 12-1. Saturday morning, he lost his wrestlingback to Arnold Barrett of Rock Island 9-4.

South is nosed out in trophy chase

BATTLE OF THE GIANTS. Granite City South's Dean Perkins (left) tries for a take-down Saturday night against Paul Coco of Palos Heights Shepard in the 155 pound championship bout in the State Wrestling Tournament at the Assembly Hall in Champaign. Perkins lost 5-4 decision, giving him a final season record of 37-1.

CHAMPAIGN — Dean Perkins stood in the dark runway at the University of Illinois Assembly Hall. Nearby, the crowd of over 10,000 roared for the wrestling bouts still going on. But for Perkins it was over.

Perkins wrestled as many bouts this season as was possible, 37. And he won all of them — all but one. And that was the last one, the state 155 pound championship bout which he lost 5-4 to defending state champion Paul Coco of Palos Heights Shepard here Saturday night. The loss meant that Perkins' dream of being a state champion was not to be. It was the senior's final bout as a Granite City South wrestler. It was his fourth trip to the State Finals and his highest finish.

Despite the loss, Perkins wasn't as uncomfusable as one might think. "The main thing I wanted was to get to the finals," he said. "But when I got there, I wanted to win that one too."

Perkins trailed 5-4 for the last full minute and a half of the bout. A simple escape would have tied it and perhaps sent it into overtime. But escapes against wrestlers the caliber of Coco are far from easy. His final record this season was 39-1. Was he the toughest wrestler Perkins faced this season? "I guess so," chuckled Perkins. "He's the only one who beat me."

"I could have escaped anytime I wanted," said Perkins. "But I wasn't going for a tie. I wanted to win in regulation. I didn't want overtime. But I waited too late." As the buzzer sounded ending the bout, Perkins was in the process of escaping. It just came too late.

"I wouldn't mind wrestling him again sometime," said Perkins. "I know I can beat him. He ain't God. He's got two arms and two legs just like everybody else."

Had Perkins been able to win the championship, it would have conceivably sent South home with the third place trophy. But it would have had to have been by a fall or a major or superior decision. With a close decision, South would have finished one-half point out of third place (see related story).

"I think Dean was a little out-horsed," said South head coach Red Schmitt. "He isn't a super fine wrestler. He can be physical, but Coco is a little more muscular. I thought a couple times Dean was just plain overpowered."

"I think Dean wanted to be number one," said Schmitt. "He could have wrestled at 145 pounds this season, but I think 155 was better for him in the long run. Who knows, he might not have done as well at 145. At any rate, he represented himself, the team and the community very well up here."

Perkins had a little better luck in his semifinal appearance. He beat Tom Anderson of Joliet West 9-6. Eventual 155 pound champion Paul Coco of Palos Heights shepard beat Arnold Barnett of Proviso East 8-4.

CHAMPAIGN — Granite City South's hopes for its first state wrestling team championship since 1965 were dashed here Saturday and the wrestling Warriors finished just out of the trophy race at the State Class AA Wrestling Tournament at the University of Illinois Assembly Hall.

South, which entered the second day of competition in first place overall in the team standings, finished in fifth place after all the dust had settled Saturday night. South led Joliet West 29-27 after the first day of wrestling. But Joliet came on like gangbusters in the semifinals, wrestlingbacks and championship round bouts to win the team championship with 69½ points. Proviso East finished second with 62. Glenbard North and Riverside Brook tied for third with 49½ points each. South finished with 43, just ahead of Oak Park-River Forest with 42½. Granite City North finished with seven points.

South's best performers were Dean Perkins, who finished second at 155 pounds (see related story) and Greg Garland, who won the fifth place bout at 119 pounds. No other Granite City wrestler placed.

South's Garland said he wasn't surprised by his good showing at the Finals. "I expected to be up here all season," he said. "I wanted to place, too. But I really didn't know if I could. I'm happy with what I did."

What Garland did was win a heart-stopper for his fifth place medal. In the finals, he edged Keith Reed of Danville 11-10 to finish the season at 35-4. Reed finished at 36-5. Garland and Perkins entered the championship semifinals Saturday morning in hopes of giving South two championship finalists that night. But Garland dropped a close 4-0 decision to Tom Vickers of Fox Lake Grant and dropped to the semifinal wrestlingbacks, where he lost to Kevin Penzato of Glenbard West 13-6, setting up his fifth place bout.

Perkins had a little better luck in his semifinal appearance. He beat Tom Anderson of Joliet West 9-6. Eventual 155 pound champion Paul Coco of Palos Heights shepard beat Arnold Barnett of Proviso East 8-4.

in his semifinal bout.

Veteran South head coach Red Schmitt said he wasn't surprised at his team's high showing. In fact, he felt it could have been higher. "I think we could have done a little better," he said. "There were two or three wrestlers I thought we would get more points out of."

"At the state meet, it's a situation where one little move here or there can mean the difference between winning and losing."

"I thought (heavyweight Bruce) Monahan would probably give us some points, and I thought that maybe (185 pound Jim) Frangoulis would give us more. But it just wasn't in the books. A different move here or there and we could be carting home some hardware."

South's fifth place finish was the highest for any Press-Record area team since 1965 when Granite City tied with Oak Lawn Reavis for the championship. Ironically, it took those two teams only 31 points each to win the title. That many points would have placed them in 14th place at this year's meet (However, there are more wrestlers advancing to state now than in 1965).

But Granite City North, which sent five wrestlers to the State Finals, wasn't as fortunate. Two of the Steelers' hopefuls for individual championships were ousted in the first round, and the other three were thrown into the wrestlingback division after the first round of competition Friday.

North's 112-pounder, Gerald Miller, making his third State Final appearance, was victimized by the luck of the draw. He saw his 35-0 season ended by Steve DeVall of Batavia in the first round. Miller had drawn a preliminary round bye. But DeVall lost in the quarterfinals, thus not giving Miller a chance to get into the wrestlingbacks.

In first round wrestlingback action Saturday, Brian Garelli of Willowbrook edged North's Mike Robinson 2-1 at 98 pounds. Steve Smith of North beat Chris Brooks of Oswego 3-2 at 119. Steve DeJard of Joliet West beat South's Randy Lupardus 9-3. Tom McElroy of South beat Kevin Henegun of Niles 7-6 at 138 and Arnold Barnett of Rock Island beat North's Scott Corey at 155.

Schmitt felt the Lupardus loss was a turning point in his team's title hopes. "That was the key," he said. "Because it was to the team chasing us. You could see the momentum shift."

Keith Cruise of Cahokia was this area's only individual champ. He won the heavyweight title with an 11-6 win over James Irons of Bloom Trail.

Friday, Irons pulled off a major upset when he upset defending state champ Randy Taylor of Pekin 7-2. Taylor was the only wrestler to beat Cruise this season. The other big upset also came Friday. Quincy's 112-pound Curt Scott, who finished third last week in the Granite City South Sectional ended the incredible winning streak of Bensenville-Fenton's Ed Giese.

Giese, who had won an amazing 132 straight bouts going into the quarterfinals, was pinned by Scott 2:44 to oust the heaviest favorite of the tournament. Scott eventually finished third, while Giese placed fifth.

Just another pie in the face

results. Fierce action under the basket during the 42-33 policemen's romp over the firemen and ambulance personnel. The police have now won three of the five matches between the two teams and were presented the Mayor's Cup, the traveling trophy which they will keep until next year's rematch.

South is frontrunner after Friday's bouts

CHAMPAIGN — After the first day of competition Friday at the Class AA State Wrestling Tournament at the Assembly Hall in Champaign, Granite City South was the team leader, with a precarious 29-27 lead over Joliet West. Even though the South Warriors weren't able to hold info that lead, it looked for a while like they might.

At any rate, South once again proved to be heads and shoulders above the rest of the Metro-East teams entered in the State Finals.

"I wish those were the finals up there," said a smiling South head coach Bill "Red" Schmitt. "Right now we're on top. If we can keep another live one in there, we could stay up there."

South got its lead in part because it was able to send a total of six wrestlers to state, just one less than the leader. But after all was said and done Friday, the six would become four. Jim Frangoulis at 185 pounds and heavy weight Bruce Monahan were ousted from further competition when the wrestlers who had beaten them in the preliminaries lost their first round bouts, thus not giving the Granite Cityans an opportunity to wrestle back. In those prelim bouts, Frangoulis dropped a 5-4 decision to Bob Kampf of Downer's Grove and Monahan lost a 6-0 decision to Ed Deikes of Lincoln.

More fortunate were Dean Perkins, Greg Garland, Randy Lupardus and Tom McElroy. Perkins, in search of the state championship that has eluded him for four years, ran his record to 36-0 as he swept into the championship semifinals with a pair of victories. In the first round, he made light work of Robert Spears of Harvey Thornton with a 1:10 pin in the quarterfinals, he whipped Pekin's Doug McElister for the third time this season. This time, the verdict was 16-9. "That was by far the best he's looked against McElister," said Schmitt. "He's never had such an easy time with him. Now he's in the semifinals for the third time. I hope it's the charm."

Garland also moved in the semifinals. He had an easy time with Keith Presley of Chicago Julian 12-4 and then beat Jim Nehls of Oak Forest 9-5 in the quarterfinals.
